Foreword

People are progress. Their thoughts, ideas, and action stimulate achievements; but to be progressive, people must be educated. Provine is an institution that has been created for that purpose—to educate its students, the young citizens of today, for the responsibilities of tomorrow. Our duty is to take the concepts of knowledge, understanding, and curiosity that have been instilled in us and meet the challenge of making a better world. This, then, is the purpose of the 1965 Aries—to capture the spirit of progress that exists here at Provine.

Cathy,

It's really been great knowing you
all these years

and having classes with
you. You'll never know how much
your friendship means to me.

Love,
Pat Taylor

SPIRIT—To bolster our spirit he set an example of unfailing enthusiasm on every occasion.

PARTICIPATION—To encourage our participation he willingly took part in all our activities.

EDUCATION—To improve our education he worked long hours in our behalf, wanting always to give us the best.

FRIENDSHIP—To win our friendship he showed his sincere concern for our well-being and thereby earned our love and affection.

Spirit, participation, education, and friendship are the essence of Provine High School exemplified in our principal, Mr. David Sessums, to whom we dedicate the 1965 Aries.

ADMINISTRATION

Board of Trustees—seated: C. H. King, Vice-president; W. G. Mize; Lamar F. Noble, Secretary. Standing: J. W. Underwood; Dr. K. P. Walker, Superintendent of Schools; Lester Alvis, President.

School Board Stresses Mature Citizenship

Members of the Board of Trustees of the Jackson Public Schools form the governing body of the school system and make each institution a place where the student can develop his talents and himself to the limitations of his ambitions. Together these five men formulate official policies and secure adequate facilities for making education a period of growth and development of the individual. The board, which serves a period of five years without stipend, meets monthly and has final authority on all matters.

Advising the board, enforcing its educational policies, and furnishing the leadership for Jackson's sixty public schools, the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. K. P. Walker, assisted by Mr. F. W. McEwen, Assistant Superintendent Business Administration, and Dr. H. S. Kirshman, Assistant Superintendent Educational Administration, turns policy into practice and plans into action.

Providing educational leadership for Jackson's Public Schools are J. W. Underwood, Dr. K. P. Walker, Lester Alvis, C. H. King, W. G. Mize, and Lamar F. Noble.

DAVID M. SESSUMS
Principal

Taking a break from his busy schedule, Mr. Sessums chats with faculty members, Sue Sanders and Ronald Whitehead.

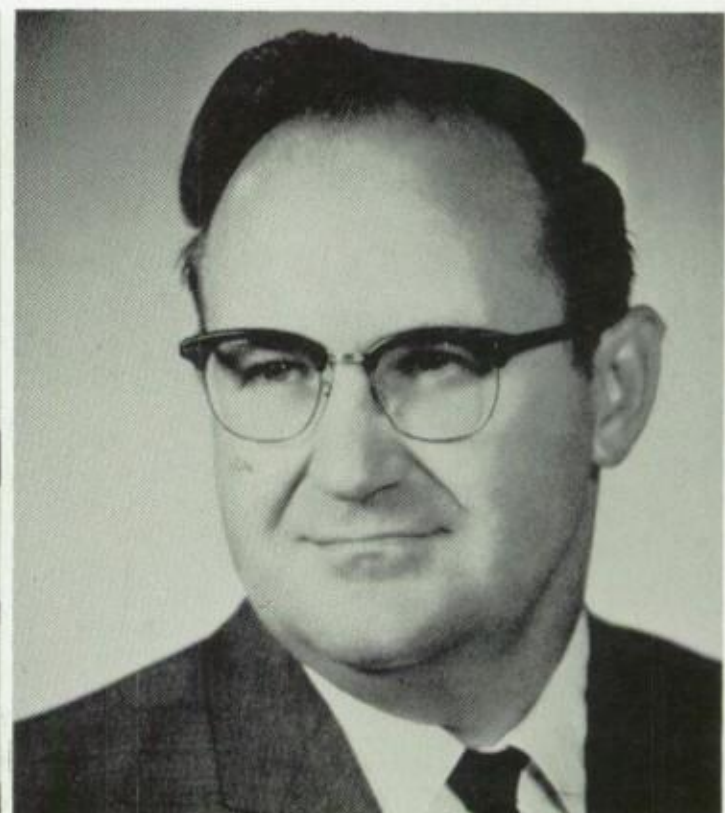

Officials Strive for Year of Progress

Leading Provine through a year of success and triumph, the principal Mr. Sessums created an atmosphere conducive to growth in every phase of the individual's education. In his first year as principal of Mississippi's largest high school, he supervised and co-ordinated the curricular, co-curricular, and extracurricular activities to form a well organized and directed instrument of education. Under his guidance Provine progressed as a leader in education and as an institution for building mature citizens for the growing community.

Assisting the principal, Mr. William Purvis handled most matters of discipline and the details that are so important to the smooth functioning of a progressive high school. Under his supervision were attendance, dismissals, lunch schedules, the book store, and extracurricular activities for 1700 students. Through his continuous efforts, the school plant operated smoothly and efficiently throughout the year.

Mr. Purvis finds the telephone an indispensable aid in handling student attendance, dismissals, and extracurricular activities.

Students learn that literature is a creative art in the study of Chaucer under Miss Wallace.

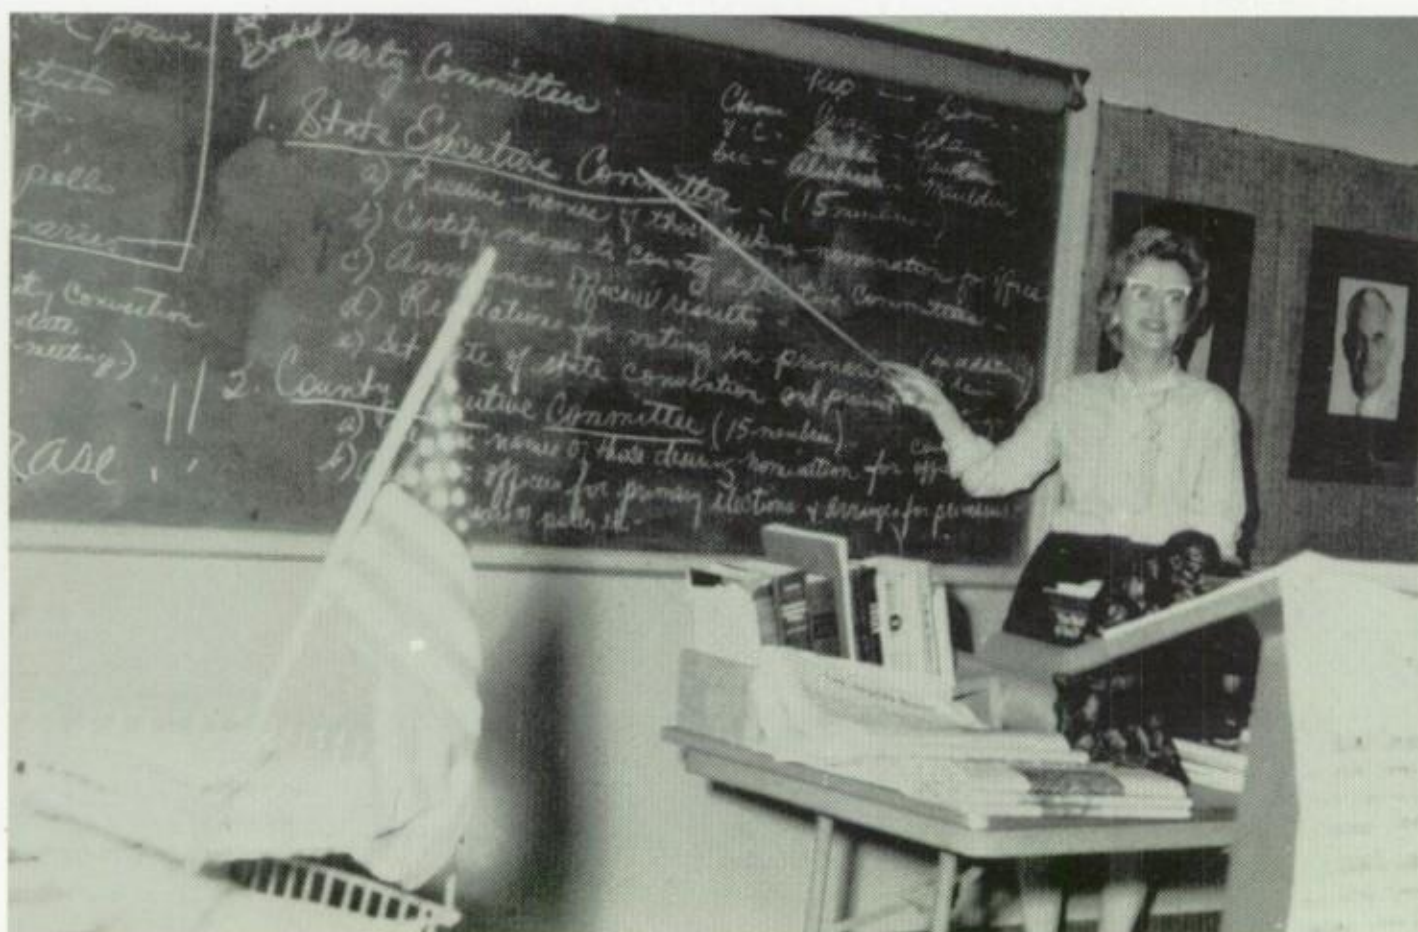

In the study of our heritage, the groundwork of our culture, Alton Baggett reports on the Constitution under history teacher Mrs. Jordan.

Varied Curriculum Secures Broad Education

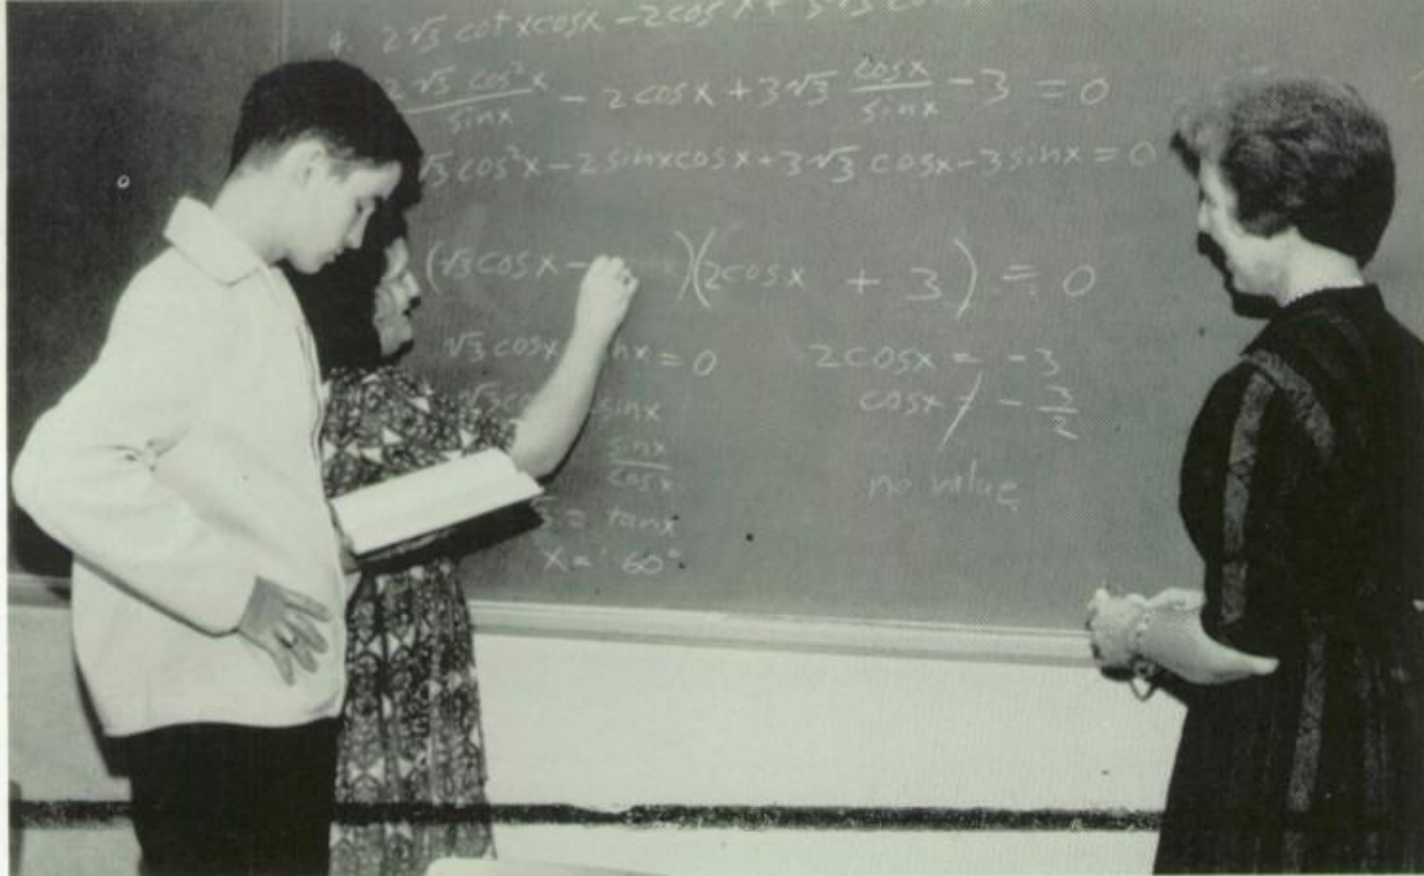

Imagination and wonder—these are the two most stimulating words in our language and heritage. Indeed, imagination is the hallmark of the inquiring mind, and wonder is the pathway to discovery. Education stimulates and develops the creative imagination as it improves the judicial mind. A student becomes a creative and useful individual as education matures and correlates his imagination and judgment.

Interest in osteology soars while Mr. Hopkins displays the backbone of a whale in biology class.

Mrs. Frances Coker explains the benefits and duties of a constitutional government during one of her typical lecture periods.

Seniors Larry Brown and Annie Harris Kirkham develop their mathematical reasoning in the advanced course taught by Miss McBride.

Students and Faculty Combine to Engineer Progress

Betty Easterling, an office assistant, and Mrs. Roberts pause to refresh themselves before resuming their busy routine of office work.

"It was imagination," said Victor Wagner, "that enabled man to extend his thumb by inventing the vise and to strengthen his fist by inventing the hammer. Step by step man's imagination lured, led, and often pushed him to the astonishing heights of power he now occupies."

All principles of government and all knowledge of science began as ideas and became the foundation of culture and the groundwork of advancement.

All knowledge in science begins as ideas. Bucky Gatewood and Linda Thompson experiment in static electricity under physics teacher, Mrs. Calvert.

Faculty members listen intently as Pace Van Devender expounds on "Imagination and Wonder" at the Mu Alpha Theta banquet.

Speech instructs in the coherent development and expression of ideas. Senior Marvin Presslar improves his communication skills in one of Provine's speech classes.

Education Depends on Process of Discovery

Ideas have to be hitched as well as hatched, so there is the association of ideas, the faculty that gears memory to imagination and makes one idea lead to another. Progress in the sciences depends on the process of one discovery leading through logical associations to other discoveries. Science and mathematics provide the food for thought and the prerequisites for further progress. English and speech not only provide creative exercise in poetry, speeches, literature, and themes, but also instruct in the coherent development and expression of thoughts and ideas. For one to know everything would be of little value if he could not communicate his knowledge to others.

Under Mrs. Davis' instruction sophomores learn to organize their thoughts and improve their means of expression in the study of words and skills.

Amid a conglomeration of band instruments, Mr. Jones helps two students in their pursuit of music mastery.

The senior class sponsor, Mr. Jerry Hutchinson, stirs the class toward progress and success at its first meeting of the year.

Competent Faculty Lays Groundwork for Success

An education does not all come from a textbook. Extracurricular and co-curricular activities stress and develop creative powers. Music, the audible expression of ideas, and art, the graphic picture of the imagination, give students a new media of expression and new tools for the creative powers.

Through clubs under competent faculty members, students pursue their various, special interests and enrich their experiences toward maturity. Clubs and organizations afford the student training in leadership and the motivation for greater achievements.

Provine's Junior Historical Society holds a meeting of the Electoral College to predict the winner of the presidential election. This and other club activities broaden the interests of scholars.

Counselors provide help of various kinds to Provine's students in an effort to assist them in their studies. Mr. Lundquist aids transfer students, Paulette Sprecher, Carol Cubine, and Marilyn Samples, in adjusting to the layout of Provine's school plant.

Faculty Strives to Produce Well-Rounded Individuals

A healthy body and wholesome attitude are vital to the inquiring mind. Provine affords its students not only development of mental resources but also the strengthening of physical talents and guidance in emotional problems. Fun and relaxation produce a healthy and relaxed atmosphere for the creative pursuit of knowledge.

The ability to accept responsibility becomes the goal of each inquiring mind.

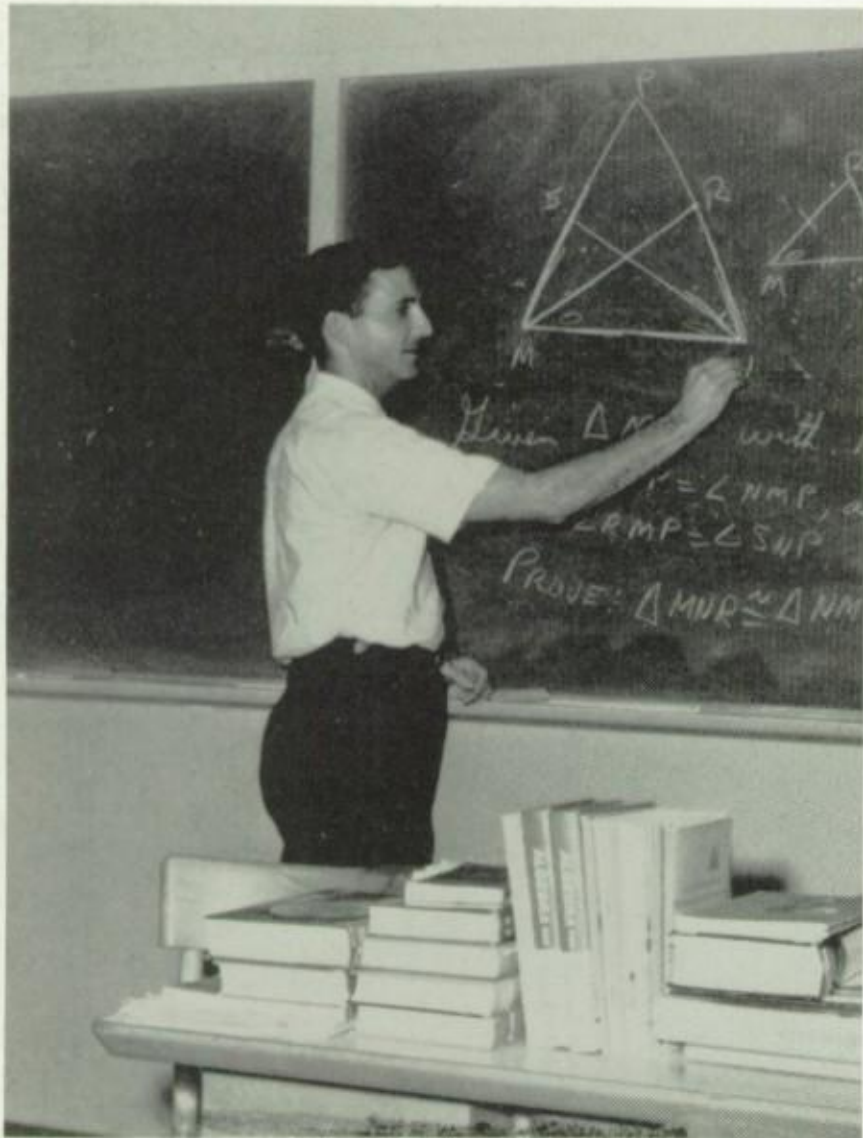

Mrs. Harpole directs daily exercises in emphasis on physical fitness.

Exploration in science provides food for thought for Mr. Doty's chemistry class.

Provine's faculty bring physical, emotional, and social resources into proper balance to produce well-rounded individuals, ready and capable to assume an integral place in society.

Class Capers is a challenge to the skill of organization and spirit of competition. Mr. Doty and Mr. Hopkins, class sponsors, discuss script and details of the annual presentation.

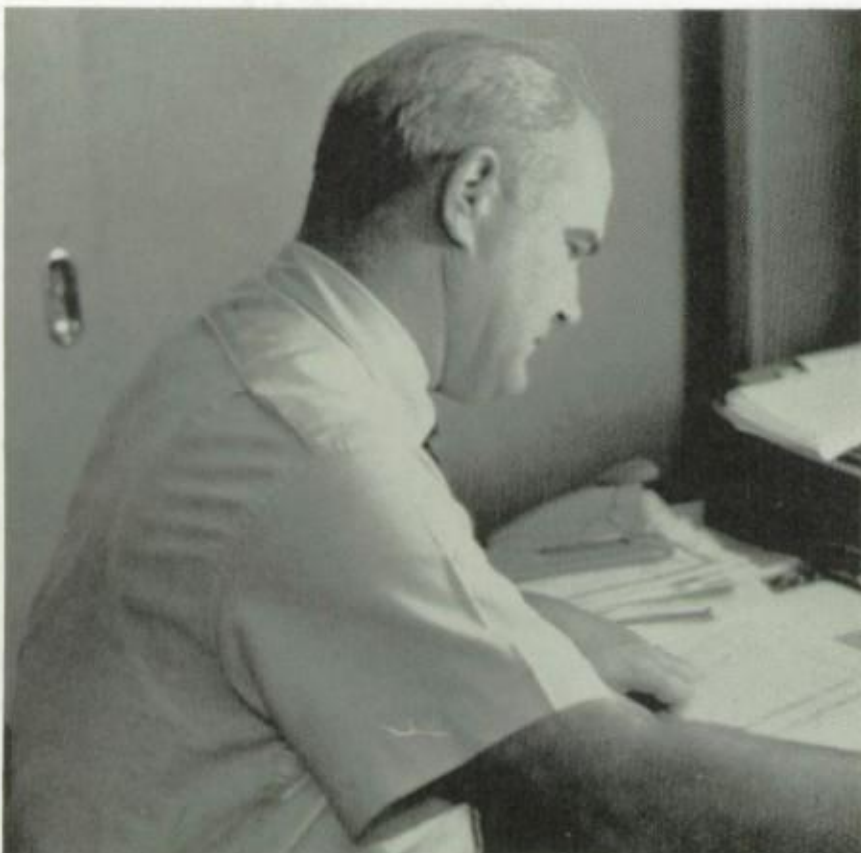

The concepts of geometry are brought to life as Mr. Hooker demonstrates a formal proof.

Teachers Encourage Imagination and Judgment

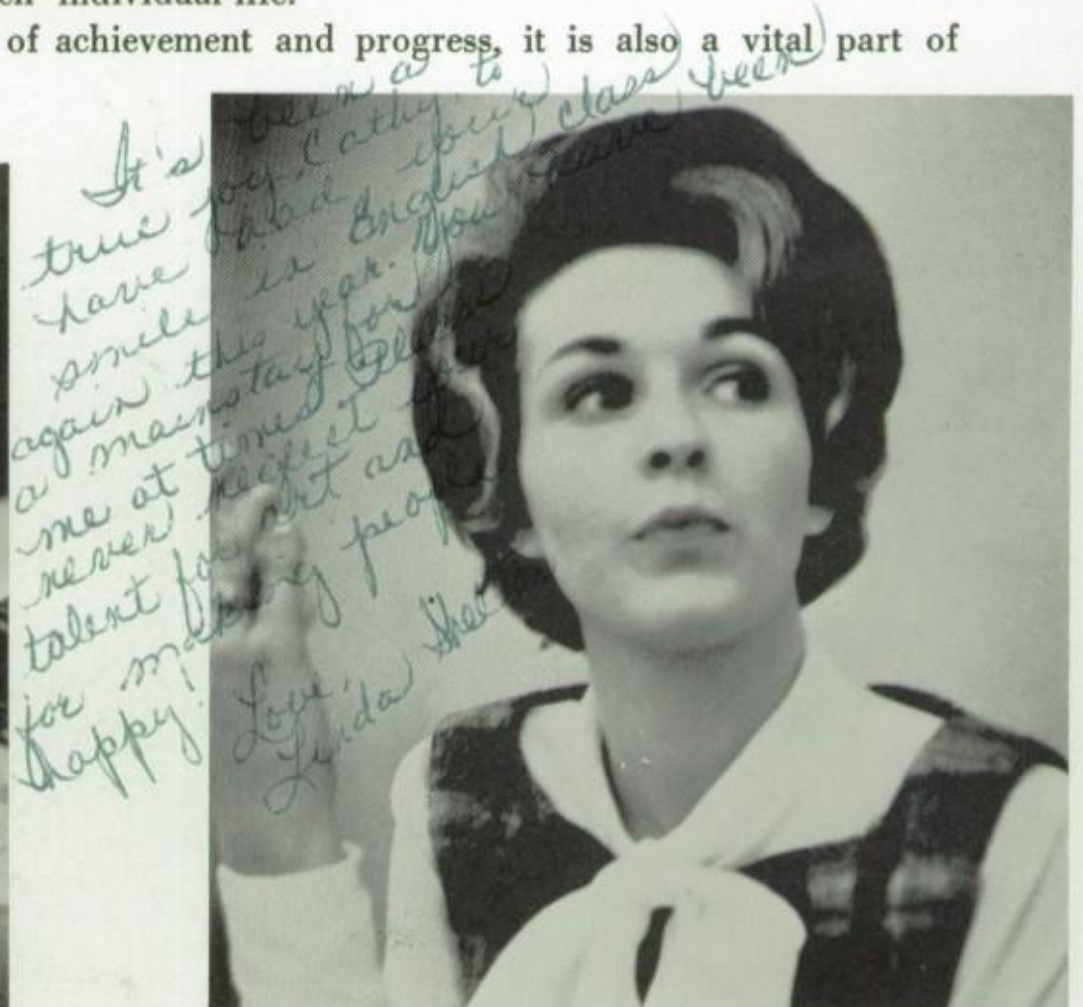

All knowledge begins as ideas. All progress starts when curiosity sparks the creative imagination. Knowledge, progress, and imagination relate so closely that the paths to learning and advancement must have origin in the imagination.

To learn how to use and develop the creative powers, to enrich the life, and to add to the realm of creative thinking are privileges and responsibilities of every student. Education founded on exploring and analyzing is the storehouse of the mind. Ability to enjoy the wonder and delight of imagination sets a perfect harmony in each individual life.

As a lively imagination is the cornerstone of achievement and progress, it is also a vital part of education and development.

Exacting Mr. Richey's diligent attention are plans for the choir's presentation of their Christmas concert, The Messiah.

EDUCATION IS FOUNDED IN EXPLORING AND ANALYZING THE STOREHOUSE OF THE MIND AND ABILITY.

MRS. IONE COX
Cafeteria Manager

Provine's cafeteria assistants are Mrs. Doris Gibson, Mrs. Nora Bowie, Mrs. Mary Buckley, Mrs. Carie Heckman, and Mrs. Gwendolyn Beasley.

Friendly, Helpful Staffs Provide Efficient Service

Providing a balanced meal for eighteen hundred hungry students and faculty members, the cafeteria staff works efficiently to refresh the scholars with a delicious meal. Under the direction of Mrs. Ione Cox these labor constantly to insure the highest possible degree of cleanliness, nutrition, and delectableness.

Keeping Provine spotless and orderly, the efficient janitorial staff makes the appearance of the school a source of pride to the community as well as a building conducive to the pursuit of knowledge. This friendly and helpful staff makes a major contribution to the school's morale.

"Service with a smile" marks Augustine Proctor as a favorite among the students.

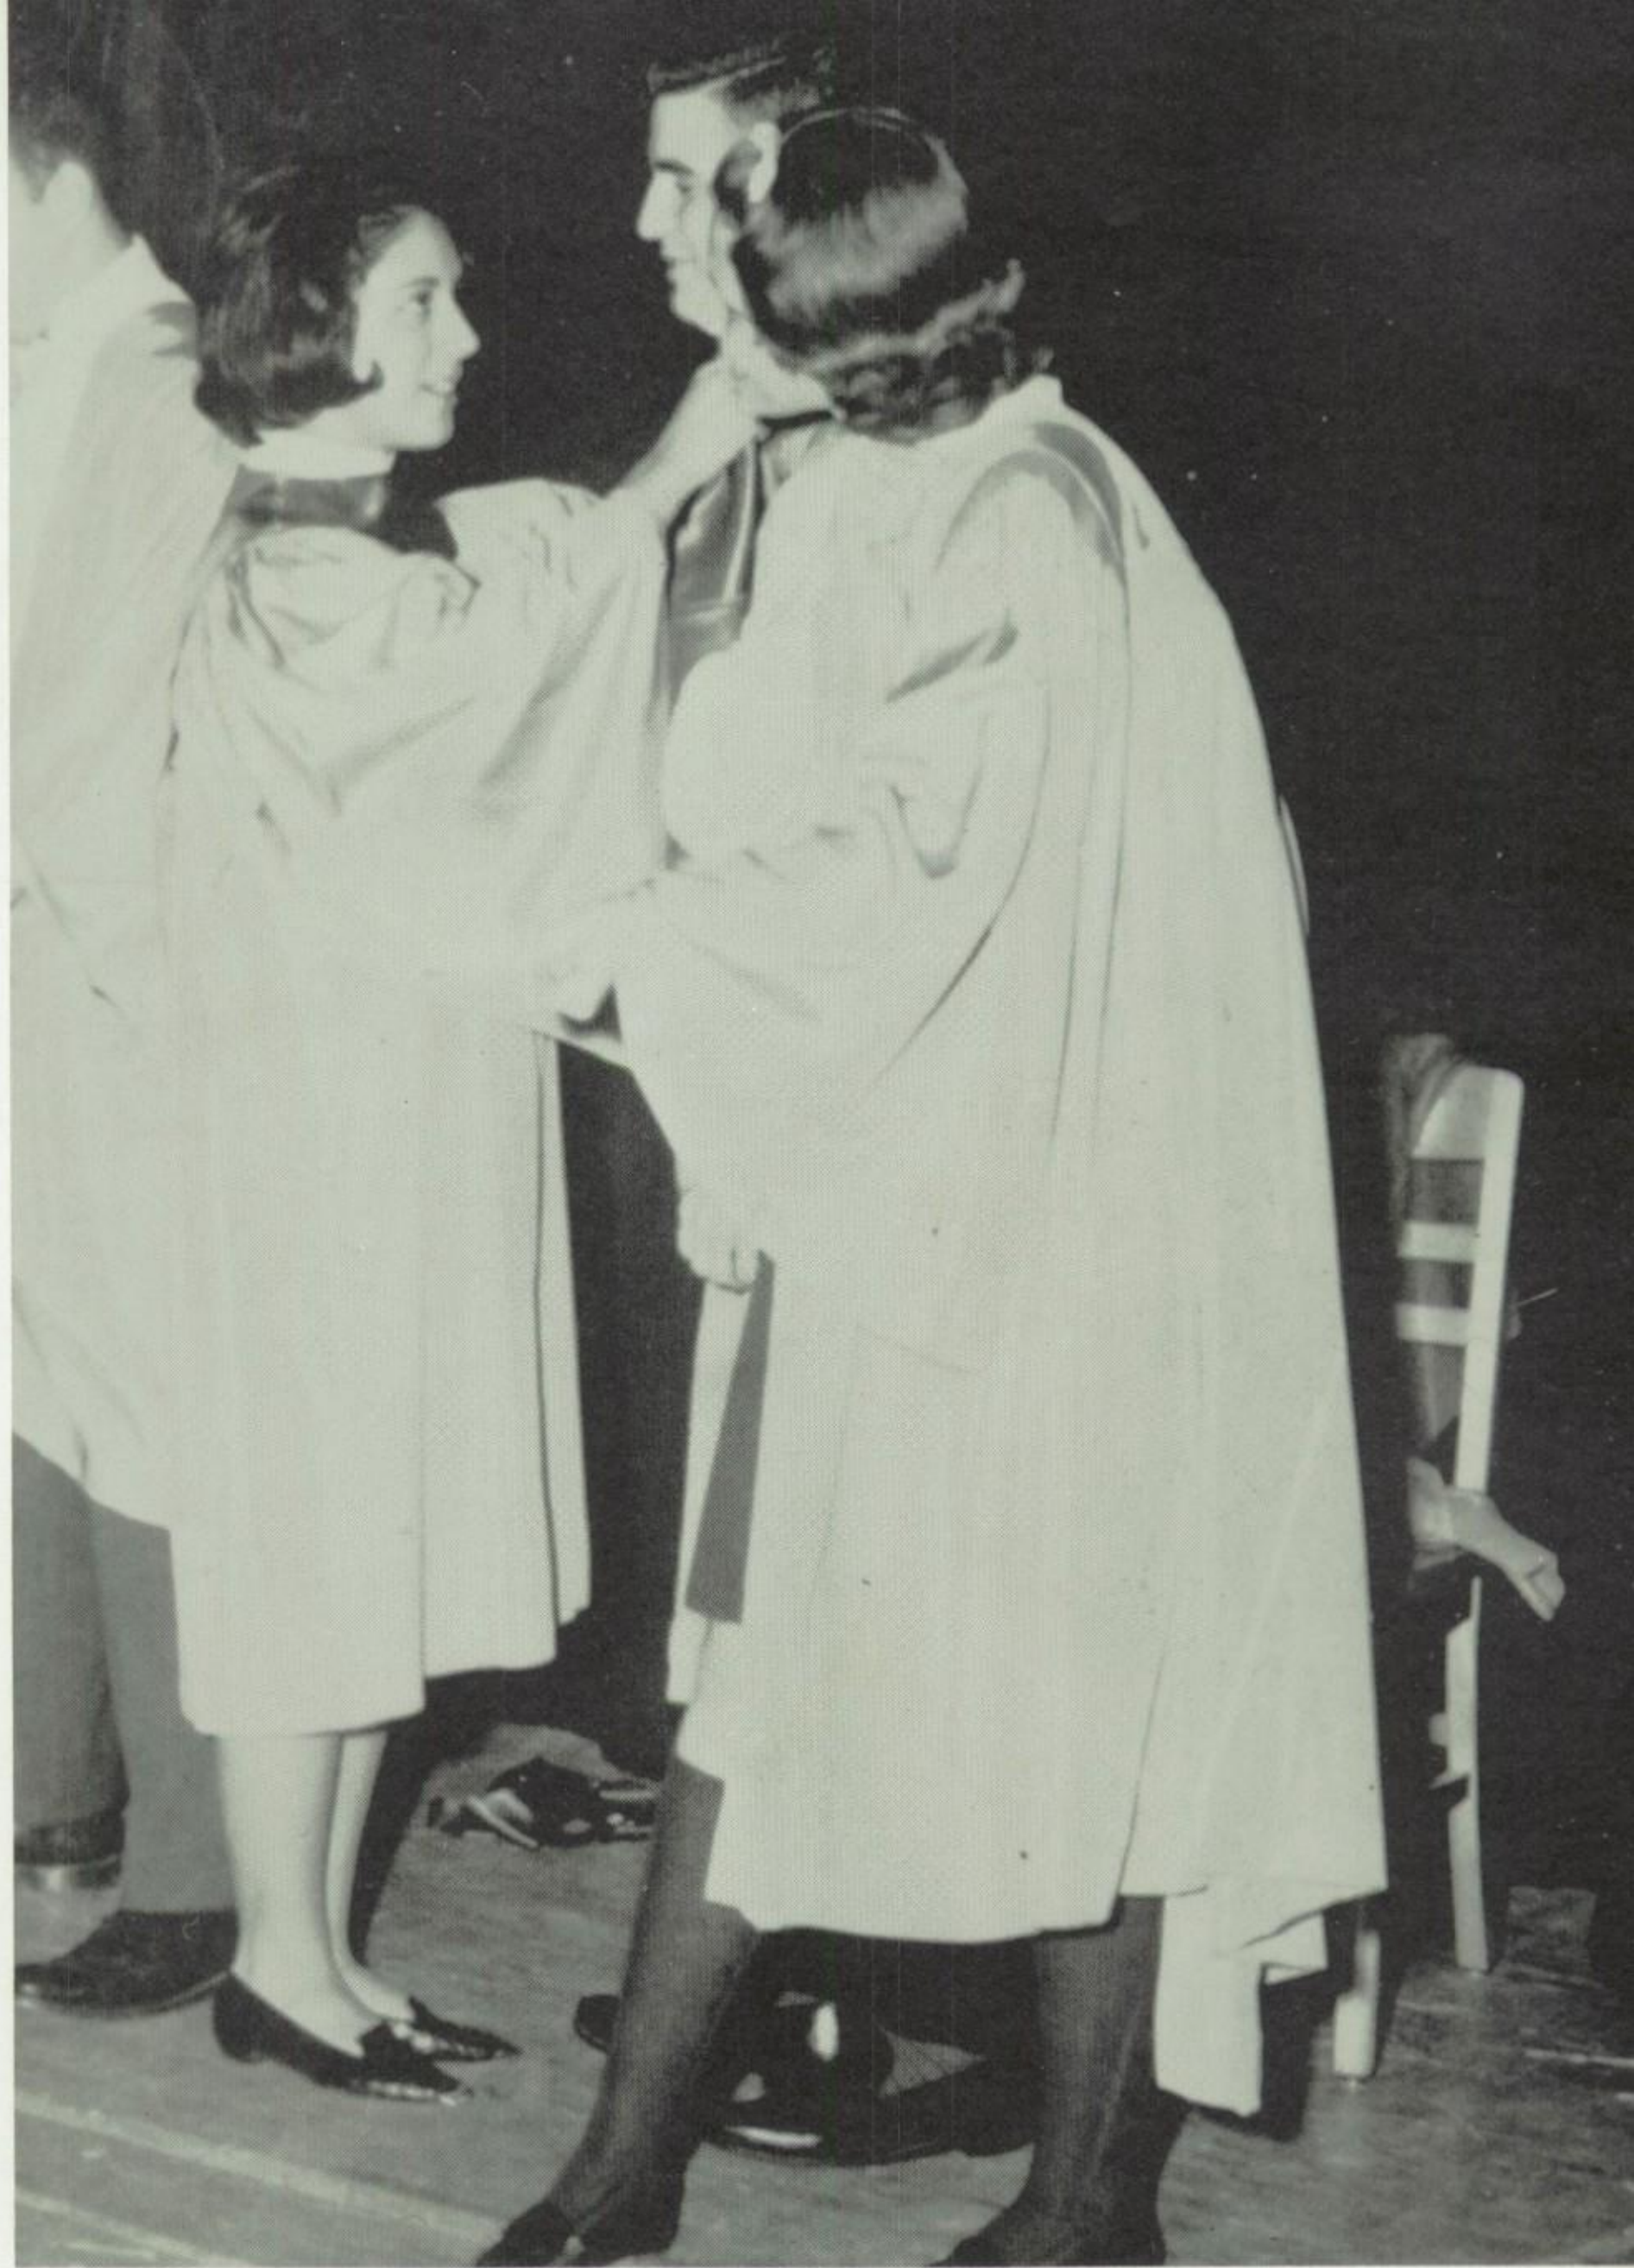

Helping to keep Provine clean are Willie Epps, Percy Goldman, Gertrude Robinson, R. T. Boggan, Sammy Davis, and Willie MacDougal.

Providing well-prepared meals for a school population of 1800 are Booker T. Washington, James Ellis, Pauline Hartley, Mamie Hunter, Charlie Mae Smith, Ruby Crockett, Doris Bingham, Dorothy Jean Starks, Lily Keyes, Helen Rouser, Beatrice Patterson, Ernesteen Magee, Zula Mae Jones, Annie McGee, and Lottie Green.

ORGANIZATIONS

Guiding the publication of Provine's 1965 Aries are Jon Bond, editor; Gail McHorse, editor; Bill Hester, assistant editor; Mrs. Hubert Staley, advisor; and Pace VanDevender, literary editor.

Aries Staff Personifies Progress Theme

"Progress in motion"—this might have well been the motto of the 1965 Aries staff. Striving for perfection, meeting deadlines, recording the biography of 1800 people as they lived and learned at Provine for one year presented a tremendous task for a small group of people.

To insure the utmost quality in every point, pictures were carefully analyzed to depict the actual spirit of Provine, copy was revised to lend greater depth of meaning, and facts and details were checked again and again. The goal was to present a portrait of Provine in volume and an accurate account of the people, places and events that marked this year as a memorable milestone.

When the final copy sheet was mailed and en route to the printer, a sigh of relief was unanimous; the hours of work were over but the anxious moments of waiting were yet to come, the trophy of all the toil—our 1965 Aries.

Sales manager Jon Lewis reviews plans for the distribution of 1600 annuals with business manager Bobby Arnold.

Pacemaker Title Challenges Staff to Perfection

Boasting the title of NSPA's Pacemaker Award, an honor bestowed on only the five best high school newspapers throughout the country, the Provine Rambler diligently served as the vital link between the student and his world. Meriting the role of All-American for the past three years, the Ram scribes maintained their excellent reputation by reporting the facts and information prerequisite to a well-informed student body.

"Pressing for a Progressive Provine," the Rambler staff attended MSPA journalism conference at Ole Miss and NSPA conferences in Chicago. New techniques and knowledge were then channeled into the already well-developed stream of proficiency.

Rambler. Charles Lewis, photographer; Pam Robertson, artist; Stanley Polk, photographer.

Collective Literary Efforts Produce Creative Work

Drawing from the creative ability of the entire student body, the Palladian was a collection of the best works of Provine students in the literary field. Throughout the late winter and early spring, the staff, who were nominated by the faculty and voted on by the student body, worked with the abundance of material submitted through the English department.

Contributions were received from each separate class in several forms of writing. The material was then carefully screened by the staff and reviewed by authorized judges who ranked the final choices as to first, second, and third place for each class in each category.

Through the dedicated work of Mrs. Walters, the Palladian sponsor, and the Staff of the Palladian, Provine students were again rewarded with some of the outstanding literary achievements of talented young writers.

Cathy Boyette, business manager; Pat Prather, assistant business manager; Sandra Pittman, Bill Hollyfield, Anita Benson, Eddy Downing, and Mike Brewer work hard in the production of Provine's Palladian.

Providing Provine students with a higher quality of literature are senior staff members Judy Honeycutt, Mildred Myers, Hilary Wilson, Margaret Valentine, Maurice Nassar, Steve Little, Nancy Van Zant, and Peggy Lewis.

Junior staff members for the 1965 Palladian are Jeannie Gouras, Ann Deas, Debbie Cameron, Danni Young, Lynette Henderson, Joan Purvis, Buddy Potter, Don Lovelace, and Bill Hollyfield.

The Palladian's sophomore editorial staff are Becky Dorsey, Lou Austin, Ralene Reeves, Lynn McHorse, Cookie Goodman, Joyce Fulton, Beth Bouchillon, Linda Pigford, and Cyndi Willoughby.

Scribes Foster Interest in Creative Writing

The Scribes, a newly-organized Provine club, was formed to foster interests in the art of creative writing. Club meetings were devoted to the discussion of various problems which arose with each individual's work and to developing new and varied techniques of writing.

Plans for the year included a series of readings which were taken from the original works produced by the members. A group study was made of each work as well as a critical survey by the sponsor.

Quill and Scroll Sparks Journalistic Initiative

Striving to promote interest in good literature, the Purser Hewitt Chapter of Quill and Scroll offered membership to students who served on any of Provine's three publications, the Aries, Palladian, and Rambler, and who maintained a "B" average in all subjects during the year.

Inaugurating activities of the club was the initiation banquet at the Holiday Inn to welcome the new members. Mr. Purser Hewitt, executive editor of the Clarion-Ledger, was guest speaker for the event.

Creative writing was encouraged by the requirement of members to submit original compositions, many of which were published in the club's literary magazine, the Potpourri.

Meetings were held once each month with an outstanding speaker on the agenda. The peak event of the organization was a pleasure-filled trip in the spring to a pilgrimage of ante-bellum homes.

Council Signifies Value of Student Government

The Provine Student Council is the organization that promotes student self-expression. It is composed of the student body officers; the sophomore, junior, and senior class officers; representatives at large from each of the classes; the editors of the Rambler and Aries; the presidents of the Safety Council and Senior Red Cross. To those on the Student Council was afforded an invaluable opportunity for gaining and perfecting leadership skill.

The executive committee met prior to the weekly meeting to plan the agenda, and at the regular Monday meetings of the council, resolutions were discussed and decisions were made.

In addition to being the official voice of the student body, the council selected delegates to represent Provine at various conventions such as the Southern Association of Student Councils, the Mississippi Association of Student Councils, and the Tri-student Council.

Activities which were under Student Council supervision included Homecoming festivities, basketball concessions, and student body and class officer's elections.

Junior representative Kaye King adds another picture to Provine's expanding list of honors on the Student Council's bulletin board.

Student body president Jimmy Duckworth displays his capable and popular leadership ability as he presides at the weekly council meeting.

Mu Alpha Theta Characterizes Provine's

Of the many activities in Provine's extracurricular program which inspire young people to attain academic achievements, the Mu Alpha Theta played an important part.

Boasting an enrollment of two hundred forty eight, the club offered membership to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who met the specified qualifications. A "B-plus" average in mathematics, an overall "B" in other major subjects, two years of algebra, and one year of plane geometry were the standard requirements for membership.

Each member of Mu Alpha Theta was able to benefit from the club's many and varied activities. Such celebrated figures as Dr. Arthur Guyton of the University of Mississippi Medical Center and Dr. T. A. Bickerstaff from the math department of the University of Mississippi addressed the club at two of their monthly meetings.

Spirit—to Progress, to Strive, to Perfect

The year was highlighted at an impressive initiation banquet at the Victory Room of the Hotel Heidelberg in which new members were welcomed to the Mathematics Club and second year members were recognized. The evening's schedule included a ceremony during which the pledge was read and the act of officially greeting the one hundred thirty-eight students newly admitted into the Mu Alpha Theta was completed. The guest speaker, Dr. James Street, assistant to the Chancellor at Ole Miss, spoke to the club about the challenges of the modern times.

This November event was followed by the annual educational field trip in December; the club chose Louisiana State University as their destination.

The Mu Alpha Theta, certainly one of the most honored societies in the public school system, created a fellowship in mathematics, extending the knowledge and capabilities each member possessed, and teaching the purposes of such a club—to question, to seek and, of utmost importance, to learn.

Society Emphasizes Value of Historical Past

Utilizing their knowledge of the past, the members of the John K. Bettersworth Chapter of the Junior Historical Society created a new interest in our heritage. All students with a "B" average in history and an overall "C" average in other subjects were qualified to join this organization; new members were required to write an essay on some phase of Mississippi history.

One of the highlights of the club's year was a school-wide mock election in which each social studies class participated. Ballots representing the electoral votes of the assigned states were submitted to a totalling committee on election day. At a club meeting the votes were counted and scored with a tally of 342 to 196 in President Johnson's favor.

A banquet was held in late December to celebrate Mississippi's birthday and to welcome new members into the club. Dr. Ross Moore from Millsaps College spoke at this banquet on the colorful character of Thomas Paine. Entertainment for the evening was provided by a popular singing trio, the Jollymen.

The club also sponsored cultural months in which music, literature, and art of Mississippians were honored.

Remembering the true purpose of the organization, members of the Junior Historical Society enjoyed a full and busy year of activities meant to increase the citizen's pride in his state and country.

National Honor Society Lauds Scholars

Mr. Eason, Donna Ray Walton Padelford, Becky Bradshaw, and Lorraine Garner study the year's course of activities at an informal meeting.

The desire to learn, to serve, to build character, and to lead characterized members of Provine's National Honor Society, for these were the purposes of the organization. The society, which is in its fourth year, was one of the largest bodies of the school, a fact which reflected the high ideals and scholastic ability of Provine's student body.

An overall "B" average and no grade lower than a "C" were the requirements for the school's primary honorary organization. Leading it were the sponsor and the executive committee, both chosen from the faculty.

The National Honor Society, which acted as an inspiration and a guide to its many members, was certainly one of Provine's most outstanding organizations.

Honor Society Recognizes Scholarship in French

Promoting an interest in the French language and culture among advanced French II students was emphasized by the French Honor Society. The members, attaining an "A" average in French I and an overall average of "B" in other subjects, were invited to participate in a correspondence program with schools in France. This organization participated in such projects as selling French Christmas cards and promoting French Day at Provine.

Library Assistants Host SLAM Convention

Provine's library assistants enjoyed the distinct privilege of membership in the Provine Library Club. Increasing the efficiency of the library, extending valuable experience and information to the members, and promoting student interest were a few of the purposes of the club.

During the year, members attended a convention of Student Library Assistants of Mississippi. Provine had the honor this year of being host to this group, which elected Provine junior Peggy McElveen secretary. The convention had one of the largest attendances in its history with 704 students representing sixty-one schools. Trips made to several points of interest in Jackson throughout the year made the Library Club a very educational organization.

Red Cross Aspires to Community Service

At Provine and on a local, national, and international level, the Senior Red Cross Club worked to develop a sense of responsibility and leadership, to achieve personal satisfaction and happiness from helping others, to increase their ability to work with others and to better understand and respond to the needs of peoples of the world.

During the year the Red Cross undertook many projects. The Christmas project was to decorate two hundred tray covers for a Veterans Administration Hospital in Georgia.

Provine's chapter of the Red Cross was also a participant in the National Art Program, and the chapter encouraged students to contribute money and therefore become members of the American Red Cross.

Safety Council Promotes Caution, Courtesy

Because of the crowded conditions that exist at Provine, students are cautious of accidents. Jim Hurt points out to Dannie Hughes the safety council map and pinpoints places where accidents may occur.

Chosen as representatives from their homerooms, members of the Safety Council shared in the responsibility of preventing accidents in the home and in the school. With the aid of its sponsor, Mr. Tommy Hudson, the club emphasized a consciousness of caution through a well-planned Safety Week. Another project of the council was to be certain that each homeroom had a well-supplied safety kit. A statistics map of the campus, which helped pinpoint accidents, a signs and slogan campaign, and an injury report all helped to promote safety at Provine.

During the year several members of the council attended the Southern Safety Conference in Tampa, Florida, where they learned better ways in which to promote safety in the school and instill in the students a sense of caution. The conference was very worthwhile and helped this year's council try even harder to keep Provine free from accidents.

The Robinson Street crosswalk was added this year by the city fathers to lessen the chances of accidents in front of the school.

Spanish Clubs Highlight Modern Language Study

Although it is one of the newest clubs at Provine, the Spanish Club, La Juntade Amigos, headed jointly by Miss Sue Sanders and Mrs. Vivian Newkirk, promised to be one of Provine's most interesting and advanced organizations. Its membership included first, second, and third year Spanish students, all of whom were eager to learn about the customs, culture, and history of the countries whose language they studied.

The educational weekly meetings had programs presented by members of the club which covered a wide range of interests. Also on the agenda were two trips to Mexico, one during the Christmas holidays and the other during the spring holidays.

Conscientious Students Comprise Study Clubs

Through the practice of good study habits and the cultivation of new ones, the Study Club improved themselves greatly in the field of learning. Each meeting of the club was used for concentrated study. Under the helpful guidance of Mrs. Mary Davis and Mrs. Garnett Lockley, the club members learned to utilize more fully their time in studying. One of the speakers presented to the club brought out the importance of wise study habits in college.

Council Steers Course of Classical Students

The Junior Classical League, an affiliate of the American Classical League, was the largest and one of the most active clubs at Provine. Club activities ranged from the annual slave auction, in which all first year students were sold in bondage for ten days, to the spring pizza party where members dressed in classical attire to enjoy modern day Italian food.

The Provine chapter of the Junior Classical League has dominated the State JCL Convention for the past five years, each time meriting the coveted status of Minerva. JCL members again attended the State Convention this year at Belhaven College in Jackson and again represented Provine well by bringing home top honors.

Past summers have found large-numbered delegations from Provine trekking to the National Junior Classical League Convention, and this summer the Provine delegation will journey to Los Angeles, California, for the 1965 JCL convention. In recent years the Ram groups have journeyed from Montana to Illinois, increasing their enjoyment of the classics and spreading enthusiasm for the advancement of this study.

Fourth Year Latin Study Is a Provine First

A new precedent was set at Provine this year. Ten industrious students had the distinction of being the only fourth year Latin class in a Mississippi high school.

The small group of intelligent and ambitious Latin scholars gathered each morning, first period to explore more deeply and thoroughly into the languages of the ages. The class, under the tutorage of Mrs. Jane Bender, concentrated mainly on the prose of Cicero and the history of the Roman Empire.

Pat Worley, Jane Wasson, and Judy Dafferner, representing spirits of learning, all participate in the JCL initiation.

JCL Links Classical Past With Future

The Junior Classical League, an organization designed primarily for those students taking Latin, embraced one other group of students at Provine. This group consisted of those who had previously taken Latin and wished to remain in the organization in order to participate in its many activities. Many students remained in the JCL in order that they might take part in the organization's outstanding yearly event, the slave auction, for all of them were eligible to buy slaves.

Although the students not taking Latin composed a small part of the Junior Classical League, they were, nevertheless, an important part of the organization and contributed much to its success during the year.

Homemakers of Tomorrow Focus on Future

FHA members busily review plans for one of their weekly meetings.

Provine's chapter of the Future Homemakers of America offered membership to all girls enrolled in one of the home-making courses.

Stressing the importance of healthy attitudes and useful skills, the Future Homemakers emphasized education as a key to a successful personal, family, and community life.

One of the most active clubs at Provine, FHA members participated in varied activities. Among annual outings were the fall conference at Mississippi College and a weekend on the Gulf Coast.

Anxiously facing the future, each member strove toward the club's goal of living better today in order that the homemaking students' lives and those of their families might be better tomorrow.

Future Nurses, Teachers Prepare for Careers

To present the broad scope of nursing to prospective students and to help them plan intelligently for the future were the purposes of the Future Nurses Club. Interesting films and enlightening speakers provided a greater understanding of the field of medicine for the nurses-to-be. By visiting local hospitals and schools of nursing and participating in the volunteer summer nurses program, the club helped its members to become better acquainted with and prepare for a career of nursing.

Providing information and experience to those students who hope to enter some field of education, the Future Teachers Club marked their fourth year by presenting students interested in the teaching profession with the opportunity of learning the duties of educators first hand. Extra interest was added to the club meetings by visits of guest lecturers, who spoke on the requirements, preparation, and opportunities in the field of education.

Art Clubs Explore World of Creativity

Art student Willis Usry admires latest art exhibit on display in front hall.

The aspiring artists and sculptors of Provine met each Wednesday to discuss their innovations in the world of art. Mrs. Katherine Loyacono and Mrs. Mildred Sims attempted to inspire in the members the culture and enjoyment of classical and contemporary works by such famous craftsmen as da Vinci, Michelangelo, and Rodin. The Art Clubs with their unusual talent contributed to the Christmas spirit at Provine when they decorated the front window with murals for the holidays.

Vocational Slant Characterizes Architects Club

The Future Architects Club, a vocational slanted organization, provided an opportunity for exploring and developing potential interests along the lines of designing, surveying, and supervising construction. Films, lectures, and field trips aided interests of the students in investigating all the aspects of the field. The fine points of drafting, design, and career opportunities were discussed with reference to successful architects of the present day and past masters of the art. Talented members of the profession added inspiration and lent to the growing membership enthusiasm of Provine's future architects.

JETS Foster Enthusiasm for Science and Math

The Junior Engineering Technological Society, better known as the JETS, was one of the busiest and most successful clubs at Provine. The members were given an opportunity to follow their scientific interests and gain a greater comprehension of engineering.

Once a month guest speakers spoke to the club, and the remaining weeks individual members presented programs. As a requirement for admission to the JETS, members submitted entries to the annual Science Fair held in April. Other projects for the year were a Big Brother Week and an Engineering Week held in February and highlighted by a banquet.

The Provine chapter of JETS attended the state convention held at Mississippi State University and there gathered further facts about the club's namesake.

In a club such as the JETS, the whole school benefited from its projects and achievements in science, for the club proved to be a highly successful organization and gained prestige throughout the state.

Advanced Science Club Previews Field of Medicine

Students having interests in the field of science again had the opportunity to join the Advanced Science Club. The one membership requirement was that the student had had biology. The club not only stressed the biological and medical sciences, but also physics, chemistry, and the ever-expanding nuclear sciences.

Programs presented by the students, guest speakers, and films on various subjects all served to enhance student interest in the club and its activities.

Enthusiastic members journeyed on the club's first out-of-state field trip and actively participated in local and district science fairs. The club, co-sponsored by Mr. England and Mr. Baddley, set a precedent this spring by having its first banquet. These activities all helped to provide the members with an educational and enjoyable year.

Theatrical Clubs Encourage Participation, Appreciation

The Thespian Society, comprised of only those students attaining at least a hundred points in dramatic activity, personified the interest in theatrical arts at Provine. The collective group explored the many facets of stage work while individuals labored to learn more about their particular field. The society, by virtue of its entrance requirements, had as members the active participants of past Provine productions, "Wildcat" and "Calamity Jane," and also participants from past Class Capers. The Thespian Society, under the expert direction of its sponsor, Mrs. Katherine Rankin, was a valuable asset to the school and offered its experience and aid to this year's production, "The Pajama Game."

Provine's Theatre Guild provided a haven for those interested in the histrionic art. These dramatists proved to be a great boon to the back-stage and on-stage activities of the school.

Publicity, acting and directing, make-up, and stagecraft were the divisions of the Guild. The publicity division directed ticket sales, programs and advertisements; acting and directing enthusiasts gained a broader knowledge of the art of theatrics. Those interested in make-up acquired a fundamental knowledge of costuming and cosmetology. The stagecraft division contributed appropriate scenery for the productions.

Concentrated efforts of the combined Guild resulted in the fine presentation of Provine's musical, "The Pajama Game."

Spirit of Perfection, Professionalism Governs

Beginning the year with fanfares and glittering half-time performances for high school and college audiences, the national champion Provine band presented the finest ensemble of talents ever collected in such an organization. This superior musical organization, directed by Mr. Jack Jones, represented its school, city, and often its state in a manner common to a very few highly polished professional groups. Outstanding performances at the State Band Contest and the Music Educators Conference in Louisville, Kentucky, added to the ever-growing list of glowing accomplishments of the Ram band.

With a will and purpose to present the finest music possible, several of its members were accepted into the European-bound Band of America. Throughout the year various clubs and societies were entertained by this talented organization. The Provine band had spread the fame and achievements that the public had come to expect of it, and these musically talented students will long remain known as one of the finest bands throughout the nation.

Chosen to lead Provine's championship band are Bill B. Roberts, student director; Glenn McGehee, sergeant; Carolyn Craig, drum major; Alton Baggett, captain; and Buddy Hardy, lieutenant.

Provine High School Championship Band

Under the capable leadership of Carolyn Craig, drum majorette, the Provine band displays its precision marching at each football game. Its complicated routines, the result of hours of practice, make the band one of the best in the nation.

Attired in their cranberry blazers and gray trousers and skirts, the Provine Concert Choir presented many enjoyable concerts to the Jackson area this year.

Concert Choir Blends Best of Vocal

The Provine Concert Choir sang its way through another year and once again brought honor and recognition to themselves and their school.

The sixty-six voice choir was composed of students who displayed outstanding ability and interest in the field of vocal music. Director Charles Richey led them through hours of diligent practice to increase their ability and to blend their many voices into one. They learned a varied repertoire including the sacred and secular music of past masters and contemporary composers. The result was an accomplished choir of excellent voice quality.

Abilities Into Harmonious Melody

A difficult challenge was presented to the choir this year with the attempting of a great piece of musical art, Handel's Messiah. The challenge was met, however, and met beautifully with a concert consisting of the Christmas portion of the Messiah.

The talented group of Provine students sang for various civic and professional organizations such as the Civitan Club, Jackson Education Association, and PTA. The choir presented several enjoyable programs for the junior high schools in the area and appeared before their fellow students in assembly programs.

Director Charles Richey rehearses the choir for the spring concert "Jesu, Priceless Treasure" by Bach.

Musical Groups Vary Entertainment Schedule

Last year's triumphs at the National Music Festival in Enid, Oklahoma, and at the Mississippi State Band Clinic provided the Provine Stage Band with the goal of another successful year. All the members were expected to earnestly strive and improve their much praised performances given during various school assembly programs. The individuals composing the stage band were among the best musicians at Provine; many were members of separate musical organizations formed from the talents of the school's own band. Having traveled to various cities to perform, the members of the stage band were able to compare their style and technique with others. Continual practice, talent, and the honest efforts of the musicians enabled the stage band to become one of the best in the nation.

Combining talents, time, and a great amount of work, the Provine Orchestra provided the student body with an organization designed to perform classical and semi-classical music. By playing at luncheons, banquets, and various other occasions, the hardworking musicians financed a tour to the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Membership in the Provine Orchestra presented opportunities to learn well-known concert music through trips to elementary and junior high schools. Participation in the Jackson Junior Symphony and the Jackson Symphony Orchestra provided the more accomplished members a chance to meet the challenge of more difficult music.

Twirlers, Music Students Study Language of Rhythm

Laboring to meet the excellent standards imposed by the Provine Marching Band, which boasted the title of Tri-State Music Festival Sweetstakes Winner, these talented majorettes devoted their club period each week to perfecting and polishing new routines for band shows. Football season found the group not only improvising halftime shows, but also pre-game and special event routines. As the year progressed, the majorettes put aside their batons and joined the ranks of the regular concert band. When spring arrived and contest time approached, they were hard at work once again perfecting competition skills.

Developing an appreciation for all different forms of music, jazz, classical, romantic, and contemporary, was the purpose of the Music Appreciation Club, which met each Wednesday under the able supervision of Mr. Charles Richey. Listening to the music of famous composers, understanding their methods of development, and studying their styles and special talents in various fields of music enabled the members to expand and deepen their love of the universal language of music. Several outside speakers were scheduled to add interest and variety to the weekly programs. Members rounded out the study of composers by a detailed examination of the lives of the many remarkable men who gave gems of beautiful music to the world.

Y-Teens Instill Theme of Christian Ideals

Presenting inspirational and devotional programs, the Provine Y-Teens attempted to instill Christian ideals in the members. The club proved extremely beneficial to school, home, and community by undertaking charitable projects at frequent intervals. Associated with the Young Women's Christian Association, the Y-Teens promoted high standards of Christian living.

The club's goals were the grow in friendship, to grow in knowledge and love of God, and to grow as a person. Throughout the year the following projects were undertaken by Y-Teens members: November, World Fellowship; December, Christmas project; January, Mid-winter Leadership Conference; February, Carnival; March, Potato Chip Sale; April, Trip to Mississippi Gulf Coast; May, Awards Banquet; June, Mid-South Leadership Conference.

Boys' Hi-Y Assumes Roll of Active Endeavor

With the largest membership ever, the Provine chapter of the Boys' Hi-Y started the year with a goal of high Christian standards meant to enrich the school and the home. With a great number of awards and worthwhile projects to remember, the members increased their range of plans for achievements. Combining their efforts with other similar clubs, they succeeded in creating ideals of high purpose and good fellowship.

Provine's Hi-Y Club maintained an atmosphere of willingness as they helped the less fortunate by joining in the work of fund raising organizations around the city as well as at Provine.

This year a delegation from Provine attended the Boys' Hi-Y Legislature in Jackson. Having received awards for the most outstanding performance and best news report last year, the chapter brought even more honors including a second year award in outstanding performance in the senate back to Provine from this year's legislature.

The highlight of the club's activities was the annual summer trip to Blue Ridge, North Carolina, where the members had an opportunity to meet other Hi-Y delegates from all around the nation.

Call of Wild Lures Hunters, Fishers

Stressing the need for safety in the field and on the water, the Hunting and Fishing Club put special emphasis on the correct use of firearms and other sporting equipment. Through films and speakers, the members came to appreciate more fully and to understand their outdoor heritage. To become useful conservationists of land and game resources was one of the foremost goals of the club. Under the guidance of Mr. Charles West, Mr. Tommy Doty, Mr. Bill Caston, and Mr. Sidney Bounds, the members of the club proved themselves to be true sportsmen.

Sophisticated Hobbies Captivate Attention, Interest

The members of one of Provine's newest organizations, the Coin Collectors Club, spent their Wednesday club periods in exploring the many facets of coin collecting. Through interesting programs prepared by the members themselves, the numismatists gained a knowledge of foreign currency and coins commemorating historic events. One of the highlights of the club's year was a study of the value of rare coins and how to recognize them.

A full year's activity filled the agenda of the Chess Club. Anyone who wished was invited to join and develop his skills in this age-old game. This year marked the first opportunity for club members to compete in a tournament with other Jackson schools. In setting up the tournament, a permanent organization, the High School Chess Association was formed. Everyone, whether a member or not, was invited to attend the weekly meetings.

Camera-Bugs Preserve Memories in Pictures

The world of camera technology and skill revealed itself to the inquiring minds of Photography Club members as individual skills were moulded under expert advice and instruction. New and varied methods were introduced, and unusual subjects found as the club sought to improve its work through practice and critical discussion. Guest speakers presented interesting talks throughout the year which, joined with intra-club competition, served to incite the enthusiasm and ambition of the members. One of the outstanding programs of the year's activities was a commercial photography exhibition presented by Mr. Gilbert Ford of Ford-Hiatt Photography in which he demonstrated the various techniques used in making commercial photography.

Charm Club Instructs Girls in Helpful Arts

The Charm Club, sparkled with feminine enthusiasm for poise and good grooming, launched its second successful year as membership increased from fifty-five to sixty-three. Authorities on the latest fashions, the matching of accessories, and hair styling were slated as guest speakers during the Wednesday meetings. The members were schooled in the importance of cleanliness, neat appearance, poise, and charm. Ease and grace in meeting people in the home, in school, and in social life were emphasized through demonstrations, discussions, and study. Each member took an active part by presenting a program on a chosen subject that interested and informed the group. The girls experienced a year full of fun and frolic true to the expression, "I enjoy being a girl!"

Debators Personify Excellence in Oratory

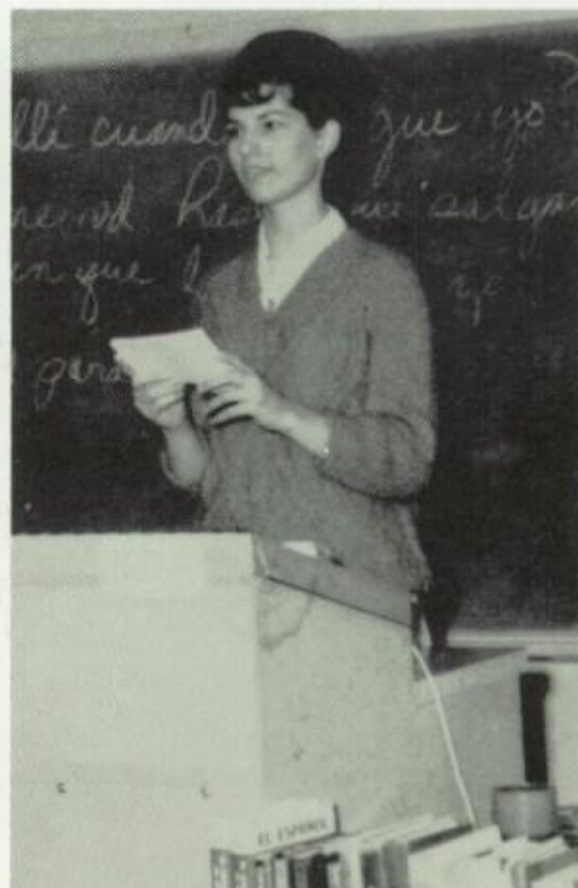

Striving for excellence in eloquence, the Provine Debate Club concentrated combined efforts on the national debate topic, "Resolved: That nuclear weapons should be controlled by an international organization."

Having established a well-earned reputation for active participation, the Debate Club had a limited membership of only those students who maintained a "B" average and had an interest in and knowledge of debating. Adding to academic debate and other forensic activities, Provine debators also did individual work in oratory, oral interpretation and extemporaneous speaking, securing both trophies and superior ratings this year.

As new members of the National Forensic League, the Provine Debate Club extended its agenda to include tournaments in Durham, Houston, Mobile, Memphis, Vicksburg, Hattiesburg, and at Mississippi College and Mississippi State College for Women.

Paul Jordan gives a big smile of satisfaction upon noticing that his name is not on the list of debates for the week.

Athletic Clubs Stress Sound Mind, Body

Organizations such as the Athletic Club and the Gym Club benefited not only their members, but also the school. Membership in the Athletic Club was limited to those athletes who had earned at least one letter in one of the competitive sports. Membership in the Gym Club presented a chance for the members to participate in healthful and vigorous sports of their choice. By developing skills and perfecting ideals, the Athletic Club and the Gym Club promoted the development of athletic skills, created fitness and alertness, and stressed the importance of fair play, thus bettering both the athletes and the school's teams.

Putters, Netters Bring Laud to Provine

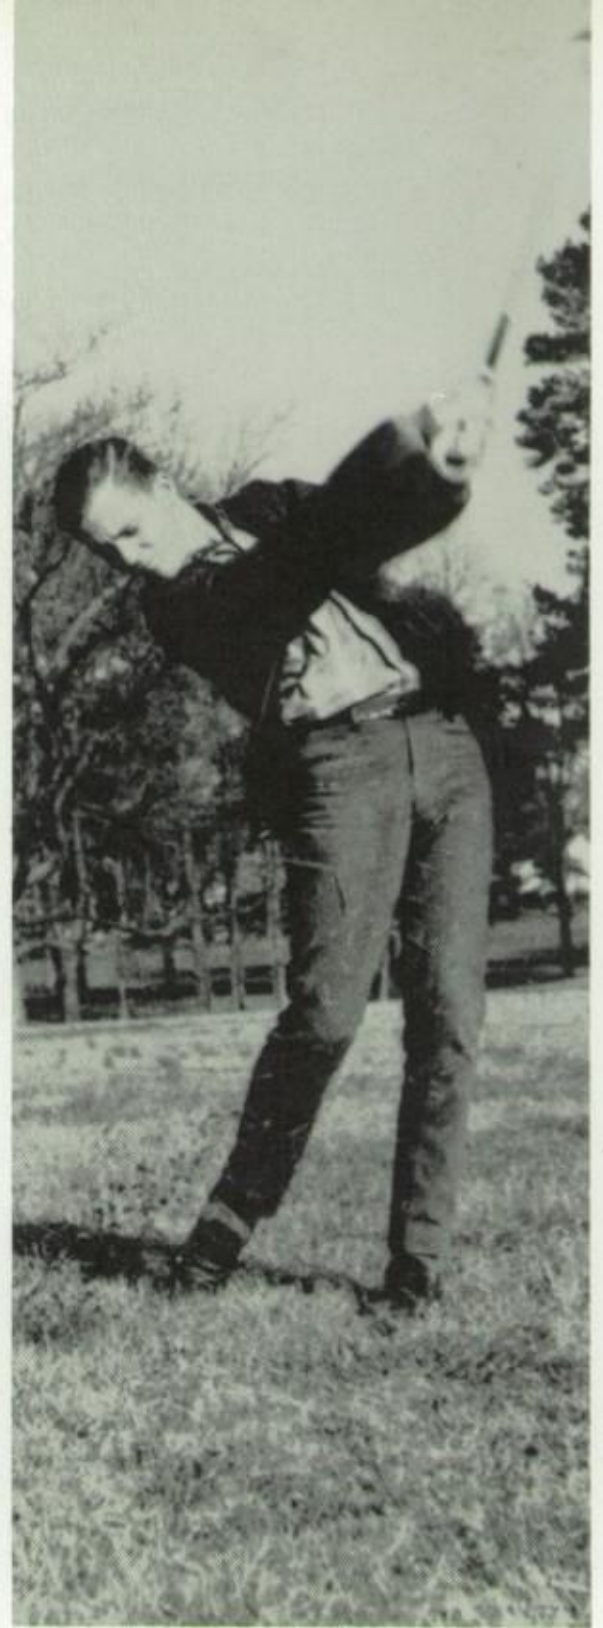

By the use of instructional films and outside speakers, the Tennis Club strove to encourage and promote tennis at Provine this year. Mrs. Lucille Harpole and Mrs. Marion McClendon, the capable sponsors of the club, stressed that tennis is not only an excellent competitive sport, but also a contribution toward total physical fitness and a worthy use of leisure time. Another endeavor of the club was to promote spectator interest in tennis. Members of the Tennis Club aided in the River Hills Club exhibition featuring the Davis Club teams of the United States and Mexico. Constantly on the minds of the tennis enthusiasts were recounts of last year's conquests in the State High School Championships, and prospects for winning the championship again this year were discussed.

The purposes of the Golf Club were to create an interest in golfing and to teach the fundamentals of the game to each member of the club. These goals were carried out through practice, by instructional films, and by demonstrations from some of Jackson's best golfers. Through these practice sessions and discussions, members learned the essentials of the game, and in this way each person was taught the proper fundamentals and etiquette of golf.

Falls Finds Spirit, Teamwork Coupled on Gridiron

At the beginning of the 1964 football season, the Rams were predicted to have an even better season than the previous year. Although the Rams did not quite live up to expectations, they did compile a fine record of five wins, four losses, and one tie.

Provine's coaching staff, supplemented by the addition of three new coaches, led the Rams to impressive team successes. Under the guidance of head coach Hollis Rutter and his able assistants, the team showed the spirit and determination for which Provine's teams have long been noted.

Spirited Provinites kept enthusiasm high throughout the year as they supported the team in victory and defeat. Both the team and the student body displayed good sportsmanship, an attribute that was evident at every gate.

Hard-Nosed Defense Stymies Opposition

End Jerry Benson (87) dives for a Gulfport Commodore, and in the background tackle Randall Armstrong (77) comes hard to give any assistance needed on the play.

Guard Harold Hogue (68) stands ready to aid guard Don Scharf (65) and other tacklers who effectively stack up a Central ball carrier.

The cheers of the fans echo approval for the standout defense displayed by the team.

With a fumbled ball bouncing loose after a jarring Provine tackle, alert defensive back Don Shanks (10) homes in on a recovery.

With runs like this by halfback Johnny Richardson (22), the Rams inch nearer to pay dirt.

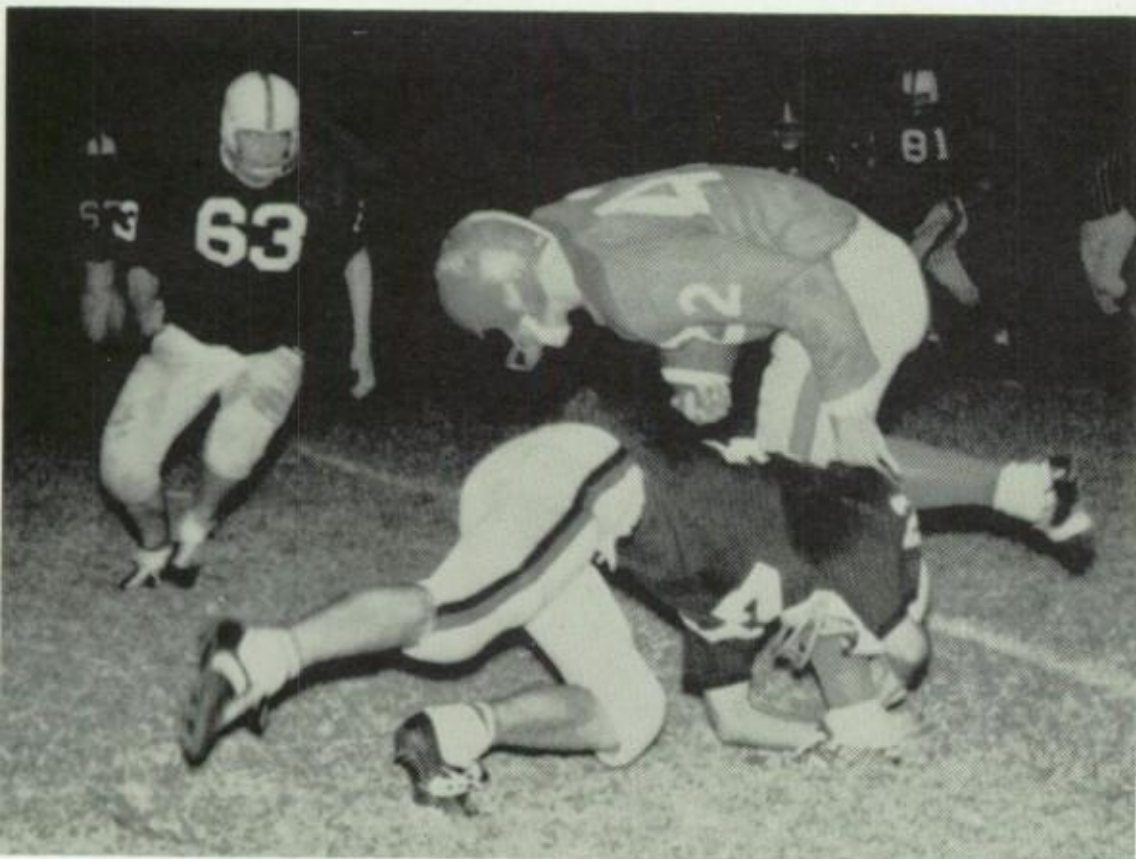

First and ten, Provine, and in goes quarterback Ben Mullins (13) to lead the Rams in their drive for a score.

Offense Leads Rams to One-Sided Victories

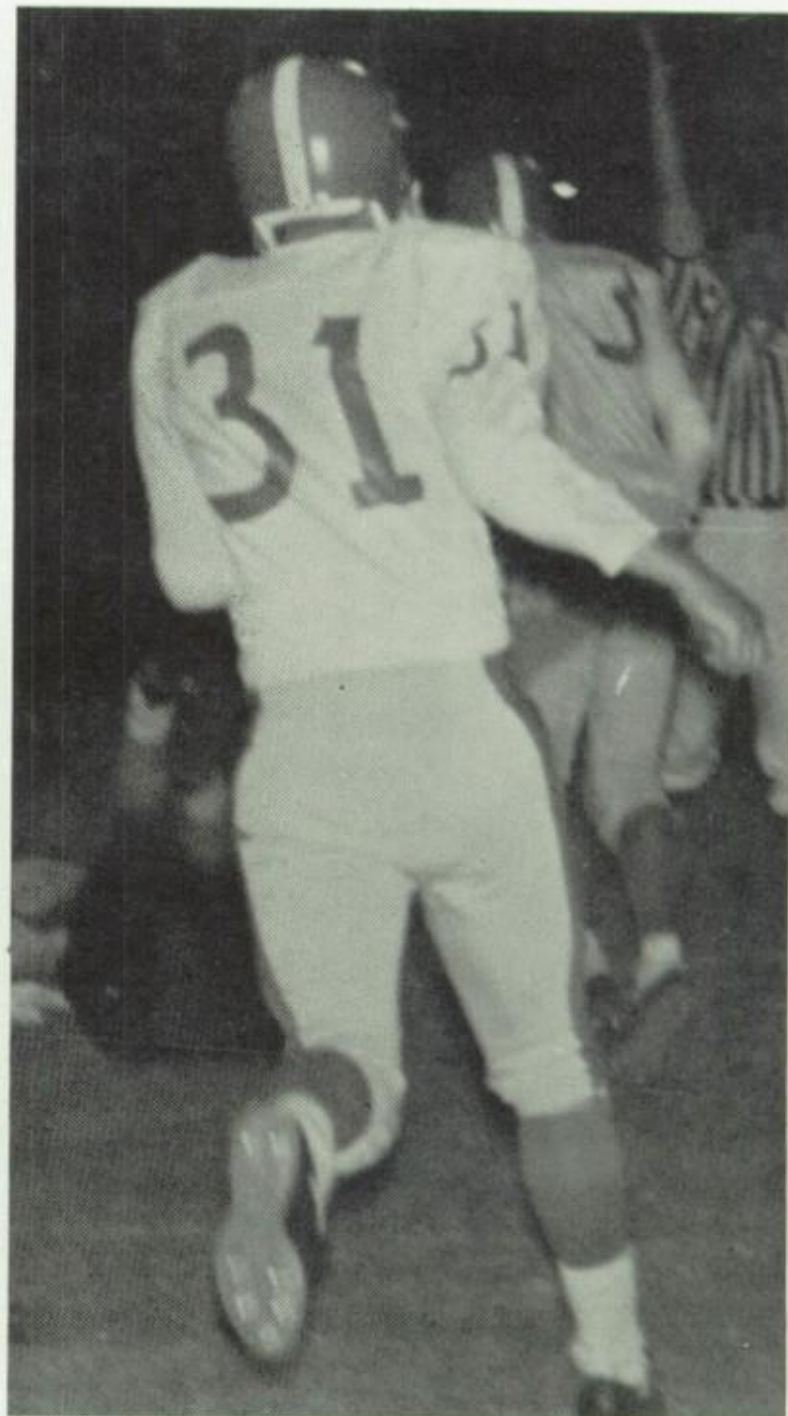

Many thrills resulted from the long runs and pass plays engineered by the rambling Rams' offense this year. Players and fans alike got a special pleasure from seeing the points go up on the scoreboard after a successful drive down the field. Many times during the fall, Provine's Big-8 opposition felt a sting at watching one of the big grey bruisers cross that last chalk mark for the score.

The offense was predominant in games with Central and Brookhaven, for the Red and Grey handed their rival Tigers a 33-0 defeat, Provine's biggest city victory in ten years. Touchdowns were scored from long runs by Johnny Richardson, Tommy Noble, Woodie Mitchell, and Jim Van Trease and on a pitchout to sophomore Brett Adams. Kenny Strain accounted for the three extra points.

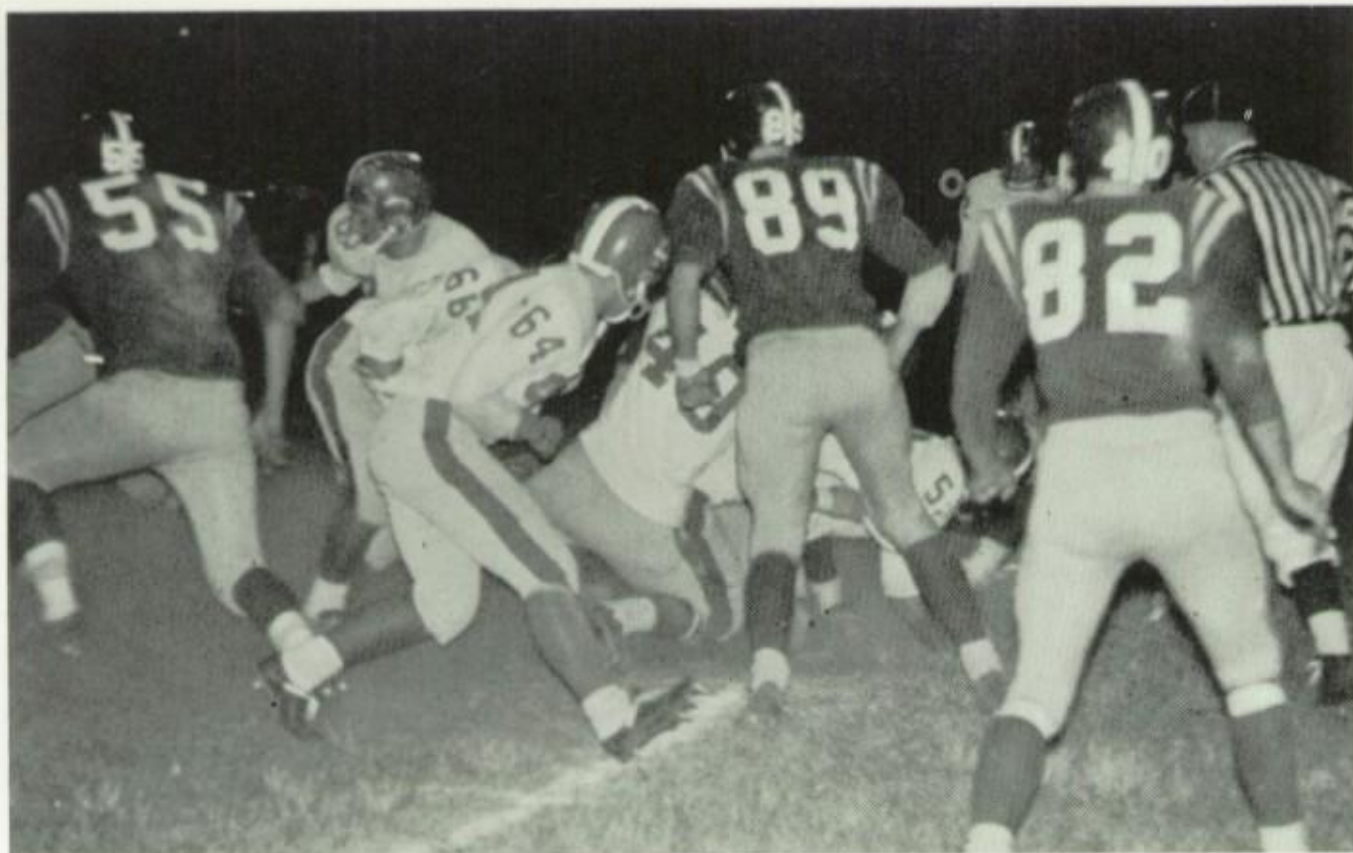

Showing a display of offensive power, the Rams rolled over Brookhaven and defeated the Panthers 25-7. Touchdowns were scored on a 31-yard sprint by junior quarterback Don Shanks, a run around right end by Ben Mullins, a pass interception and 80-yard run by Woodie Mitchell, and a 61-yard gallop by Gary Freeman.

Pass plays from Ben Mullins to end Tommy Noble (42) set up the Rams in excellent field position.

Rugged team effort and a fighting spirit result in a touchdown for Provine.

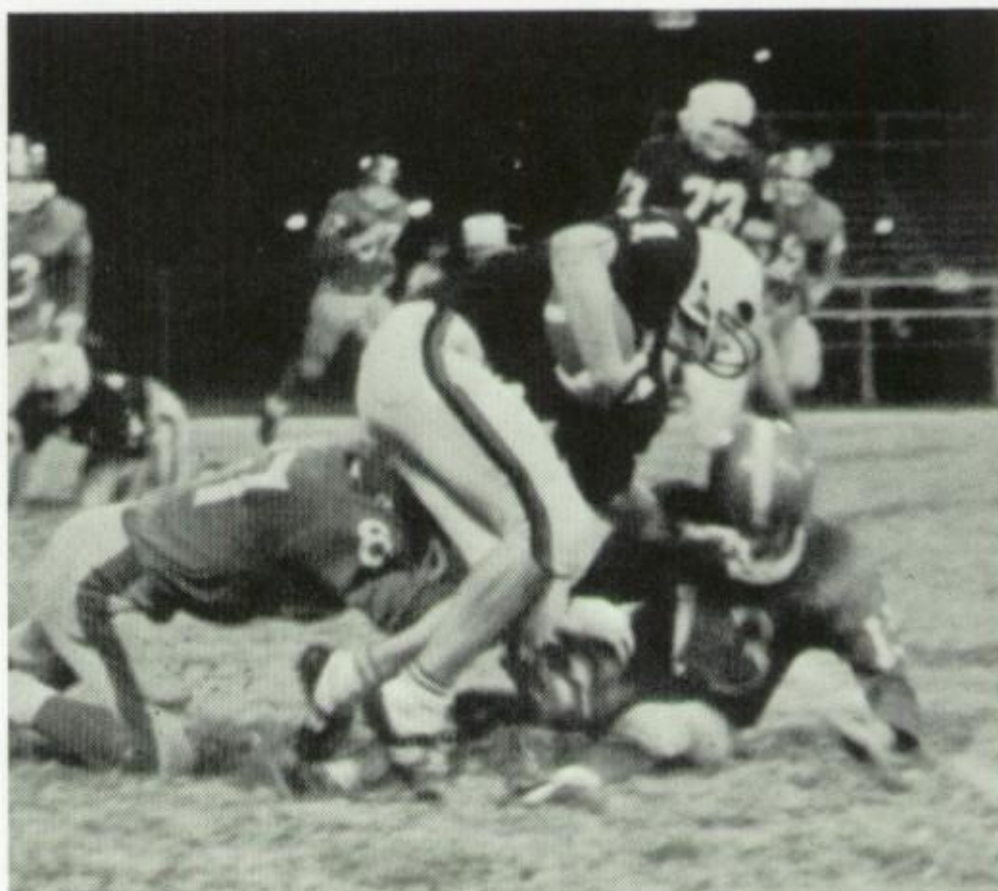

After the snap, white-jerseyed Rams, David Litzkow (64), Max Arinder (40), and Bruce Hartfield, (52) along with other team members, provide necessary blocking for successful execution of a play.

Rams Triumph as Yazoo, McComb, Central,

Provine opened its 1964 football season by playing host to the Yazoo City Indians at Newell Field. Quarterback Ben Mullins tossed a fourth down pass to fullback Tommy Noble with just 2:35 left in the game to break a 13-13 tie and give the Rams a hard-earned 19-13 win. Other touchdowns were scored by halfback Jim Van Trease on a pass from Mullins and on a 66-yard run by Ronnie Jones.

The Rams' next two games were with Gulf coast elevens, and the Ruttermen found the going rough, for both Pascagoula and Gulfport played almost perfect games to defeat the Rams 13-0 and 39-6, respectively. By playing hard-nosed defensive football and taking advantage of the breaks, the visiting Panthers from Pascagoula dealt the Rams their first loss of the season. The next week several hundred Provinians traveled to Gulfport in hopes of upsetting the state's number one ranked team; however, the Red and Grey managed only one score against the stingy Commodores.

Opposing ball carriers usually bite the dust hard, such as in this instance where end Jerry Benson (87) and defensive back Ben Mullins (13) combine efforts against a Pascagoula back.

"Look out for the Ram brigade" is appropriate warning for this Central back who must deal with the hard-charging trio of Harold Hogue (68), Bruce Hartfield (52), and Nicky Clark (76).

With Derle Underwood (82) charging in fast, a determined linebacker Gary Freeman (33) goes after an escaping Central back already double-teamed by guard Pete Cajoleas (41).

Moss Point, and Ole Brook Fall to Crimson

Moving in fast, Ronnie Hodges (80) and John Baxter (66) come up to make sure of the tackle while Don Scharf and Ken Strain (86) charge in from the other flank.

With a record of two wins and two losses, the Rams anticipated a victory over McComb in an action filled game at Newell Field and came out on top with a thrilling 14-0 win. Racking up all their points in the first half on touchdowns by Tommy Noble and Don Shanks, Provine settled down the last half to play defensive ball and hold the Pike Countians scoreless.

Natchez played host to Provine the following week and scored a thrilling 19-14 homecoming victory over the Rams. Both Provine touchdowns were scored by Gary Freeman. Kenny Strain completed the scoring with one extra point in two attempts.

The Rams traveled to the Mississippi Gulf Coast and met the Moss Point Tigers in the "dust bowl" game. After overcoming the dust, Jim VanTrease and Don Shanks scored both Ram touchdowns, and Larry Jones caused a Moss Point fumble out of the end zone for a safety to help spoil the coast school's homecoming.

A Biloxi back gets by a valiant effort by Tommy Noble, but Bruce Hartfield and Mike Beck (73) come in to quickly close up the other exits.

This McComb Tiger runs into trouble in the form of end Larry Jones (83) and halfback Ronnie Jones (21), who prepare to bring him down hard.

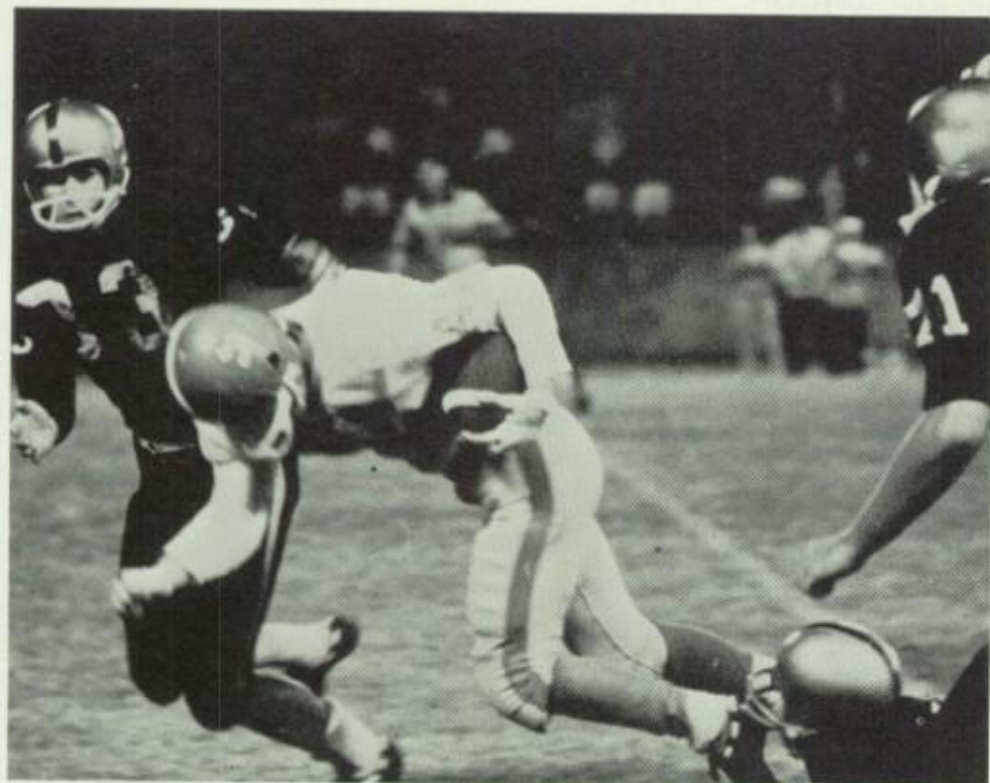

Biloxi Battles Provine to Tie Homecoming Tilt

The Homecoming game this year for Provine was against the Biloxi Indians. In what proved to be an all-out offensive effort by both teams, the outcome was a disappointing 27-27 tie for the hometown fans. For the home team Don Shanks scored two touchdowns, both on runs of thirteen yards. Quarterback Ben Mullins accounted for the other two markers on a run of twelve yards and a 23-yard pass to Jim Van Trease. Kenny Strain added the three big PAT's that avoided a loss for the Rams.

The bright aspect of the night was the crowning of the Homecoming Queen Linda Polk during the traditional halftime ceremonies.

Halfback Tommy Smithhart, guard Bobby Keifer, tackle Jimmy Duckworth, guard Jim Wright, and end Ronald Adams sit on the steps of the gym as they anticipate the night's game.

Woodie Mitchell (43) shows the type of ruggedness and determination that beat Central 33-0, as he charges forward hard.

Ben Mullins, all alone, crosses the goal line and chalks up six more points for the Rams.

Team, Managers Receive Deserved Recognition

Each year every team has those certain ones who stand out above the rest in ability and accomplishment. Their contribution to the team on and off the field deemed them certain for special recognition. These extraordinary players were proven by the records to have blocked more, tackled more, scored more points, gained more yards, or intercepted more passes than the ordinary player.

The Jackson Touchdown Club gave an award each week to the player in the city who exhibited the most outstanding performance in a game the previous week. Provine copped awards three of the weeks; recipients from Provine for this award were tailback Johnny Richardson and quarterbacks Ben Mullins and Don Shanks.

Each year the city teams compile their best into an All-City Team. Provine's best-in-the-city were center Bruce Hartfield, guard Don Scharf, tackle Mike Beck, quarterback Ben Mullins, defensive end Jerry Benson, linebacker Woodie Mitchell, and fullback Gary Freeman.

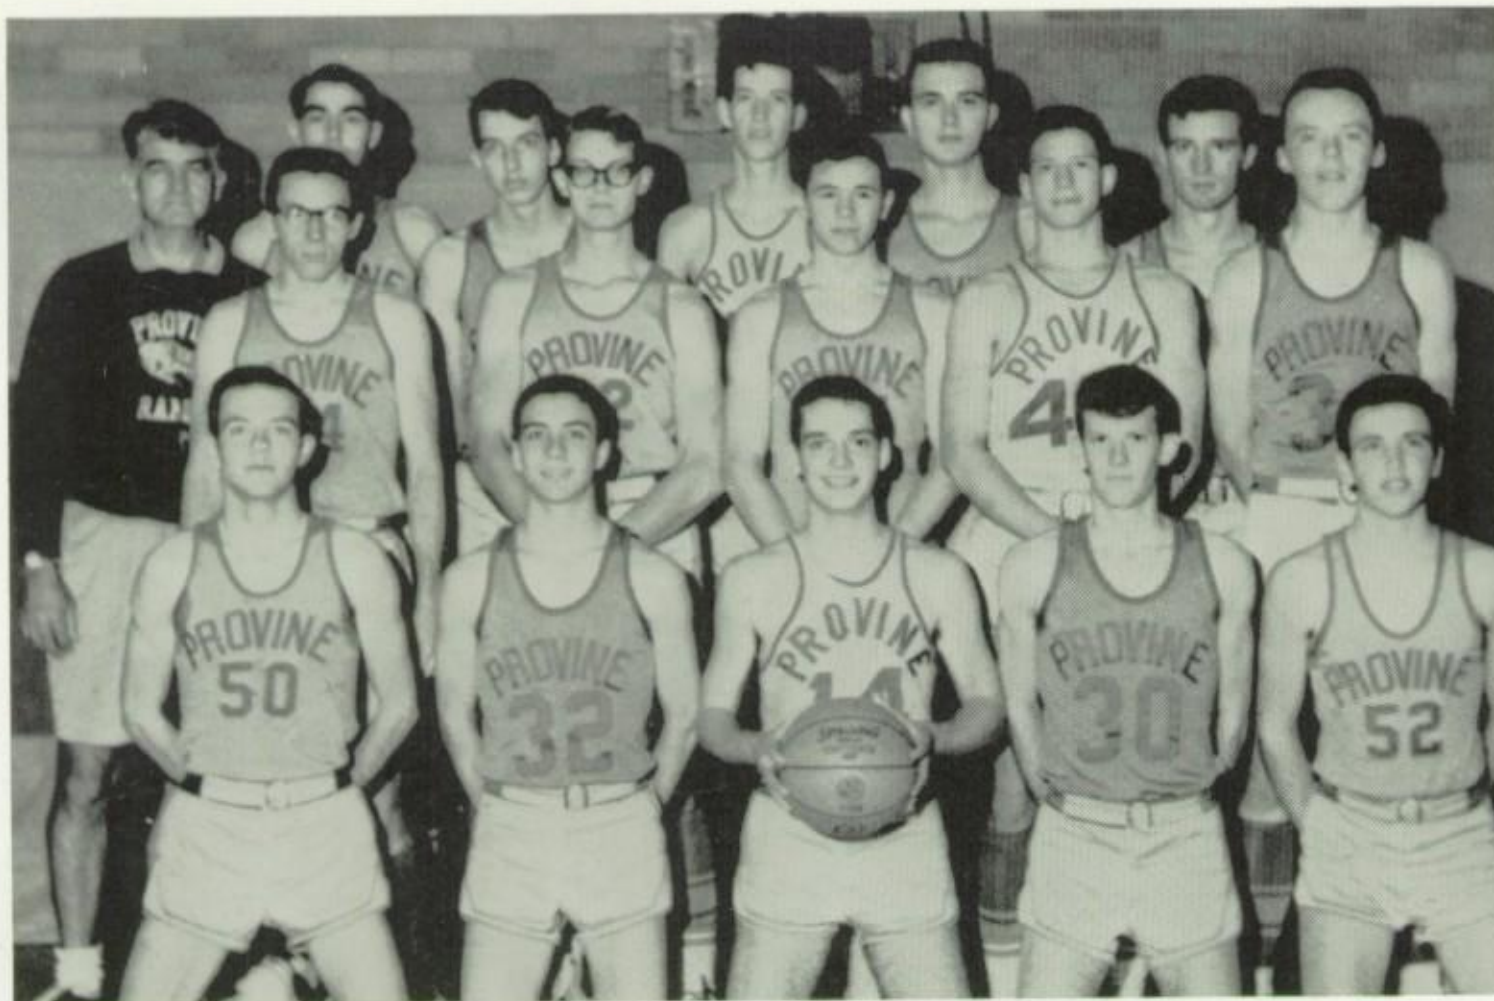

The Rams also placed guard Don Scharf and fullback Gary Freeman to the South Big-8 Team; honorable mentions to the South Big-8 Team were tackle Mike Beck, linebacker Woodie Mitchell, and defensive end Jerry Benson.

The coaches and team members voted to give special recognition to individuals for outstanding service. Don Scharf was voted Most Valuable Player and Best Blocker in the Line. Bruce Hartfield and Ben Mullins were elected permanent co-captains, and Bruce received the Best Scholastic Average award. Fullback Gary Freeman was voted Best Blocker in the Backfield, and Woodie Mitchell copped the Best Defensive Back Award. Jerry Benson received the Best Defensive Lineman award, and David Litzkow was voted Most Improved Lineman.

With unerring dedication to the task at hand, the football managers became the maintenance arm of a successful organization during the football campaign. Responsibility for equipment, first aid, water, and the other essentials that make a team go, fell to this ready crew, led by senior Jimmy Smith. When the season had ended and recognition was passed out, this group garnered more than a small amount of credit for their part in a never-say-die effort.

Provine's football managers are Sammy Arrington, Billy Lay, Lee Wren, Jimmy Smith, and Jim Gallaspy.

Basketballers Signal Banner Year of Cage Play

With only a "so-so" season predicted for them, the "long, tall" Provine Rams began a memorable season. They sacked away nine straight victories before their first defeat, and included in that string was the winning of the Murrah Invitational Tournament.

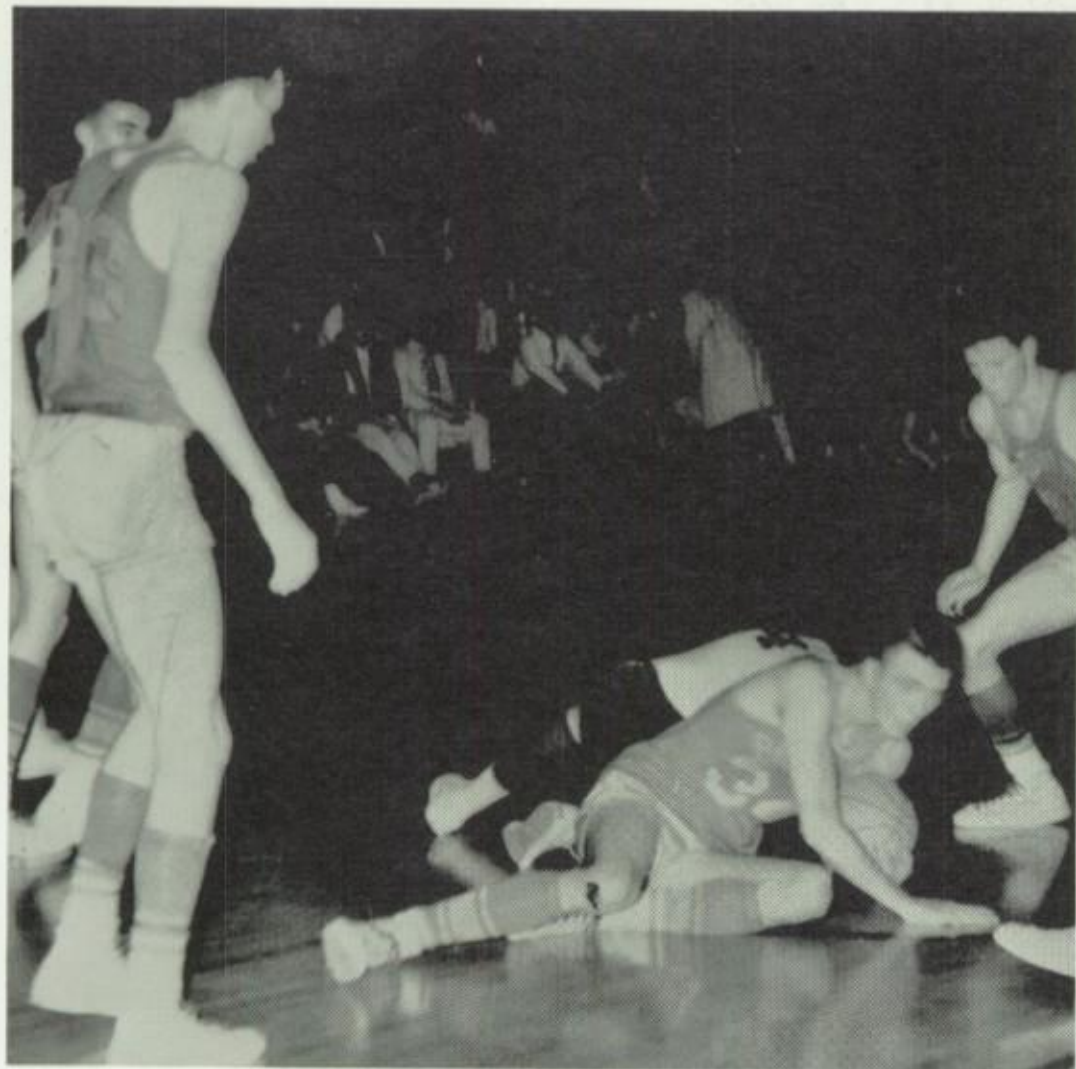

During their first nine games of the year, the Rams rolled to impressive victories over their opposition. Included in three triumphs was a season-opening win over neighboring Clinton. Provine jumped off to a quick 13-0 lead and fought off a last minute Clinton rally to defeat them by thirteen points. After their second win of the young season over Brookhaven, the Rams ran up a one-sided 62-51 score over rival Murrah. Then Vicksburg tried the stall against the Rams, but their efforts proved futile, and Provine came out on top with a narrow 28-23 win. Later in the season the Rams defeated the Greenies from Vicksburg 63-39.

The most exciting ball game of the year saw the state's two biggest rivals, Provine and Central, battling at the downtown Tiger gym. Before an overflow crowd the Tigers held off last minute Ram efforts to defeat Provine 41-39 in triple overtime.

The middle of the season had its bad moments for the team as they suffered a double overtime loss to McComb and a defeat to Natchez on the opposing teams' courts. The following week the Rams defeated the Rebels from Natchez 61-44 to even the two teams' record.

In a trio of city games to end the regular season, Provine won two and lost one to bring the regular season record to nine victories against five losses. The last two games saw rivals Murrah and Forest Hill fall before the hard-charging Rams after Central had eased by the Rams in the first contest.

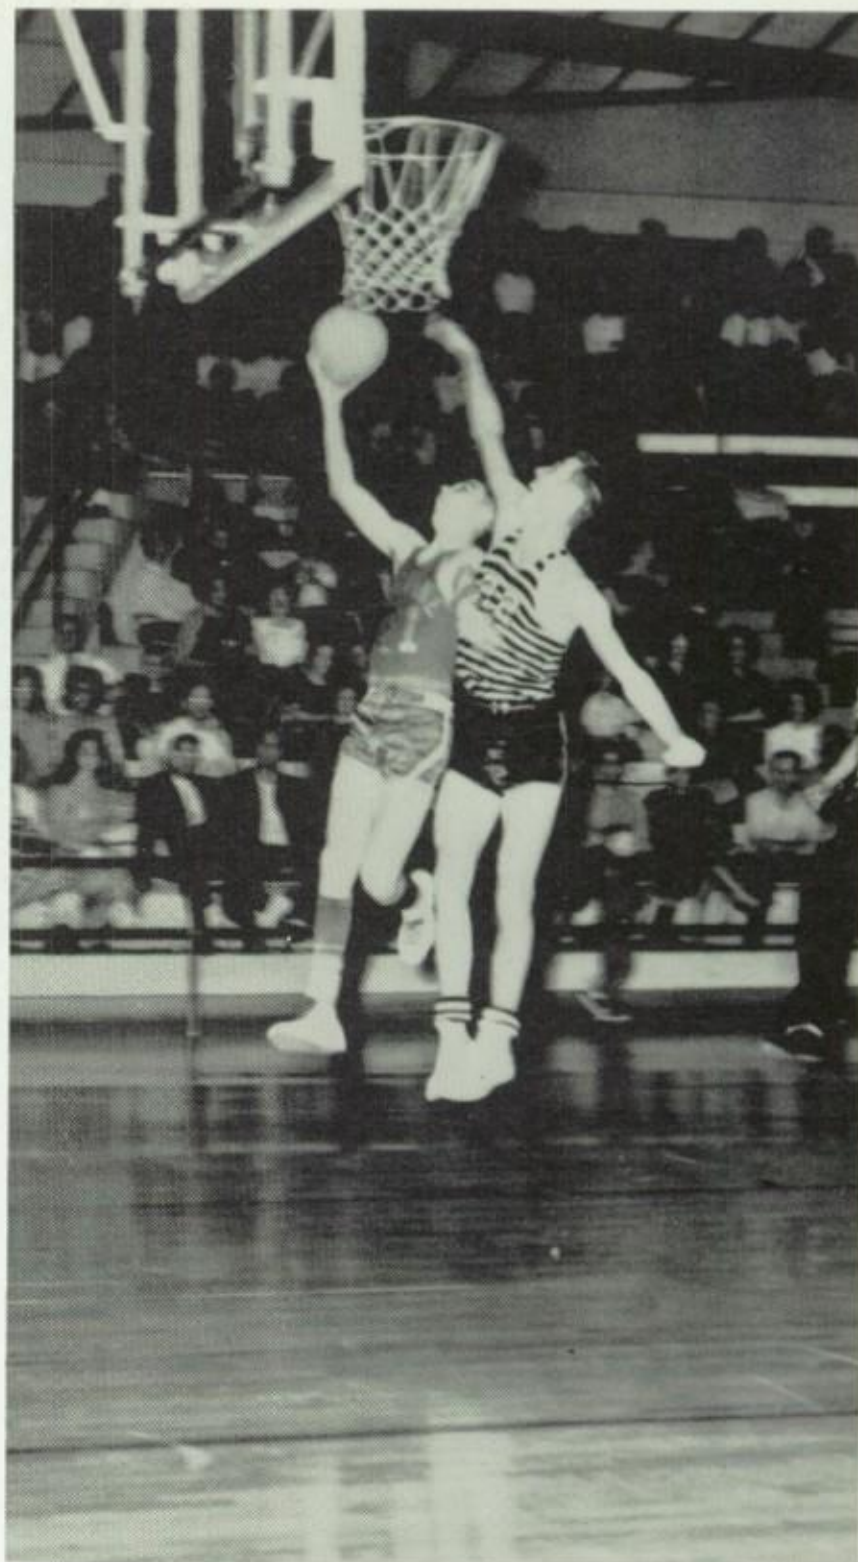

At the helm of Provine's basketball teams this season were head coach Howard Shook and B-team coach Buddy Bounds.

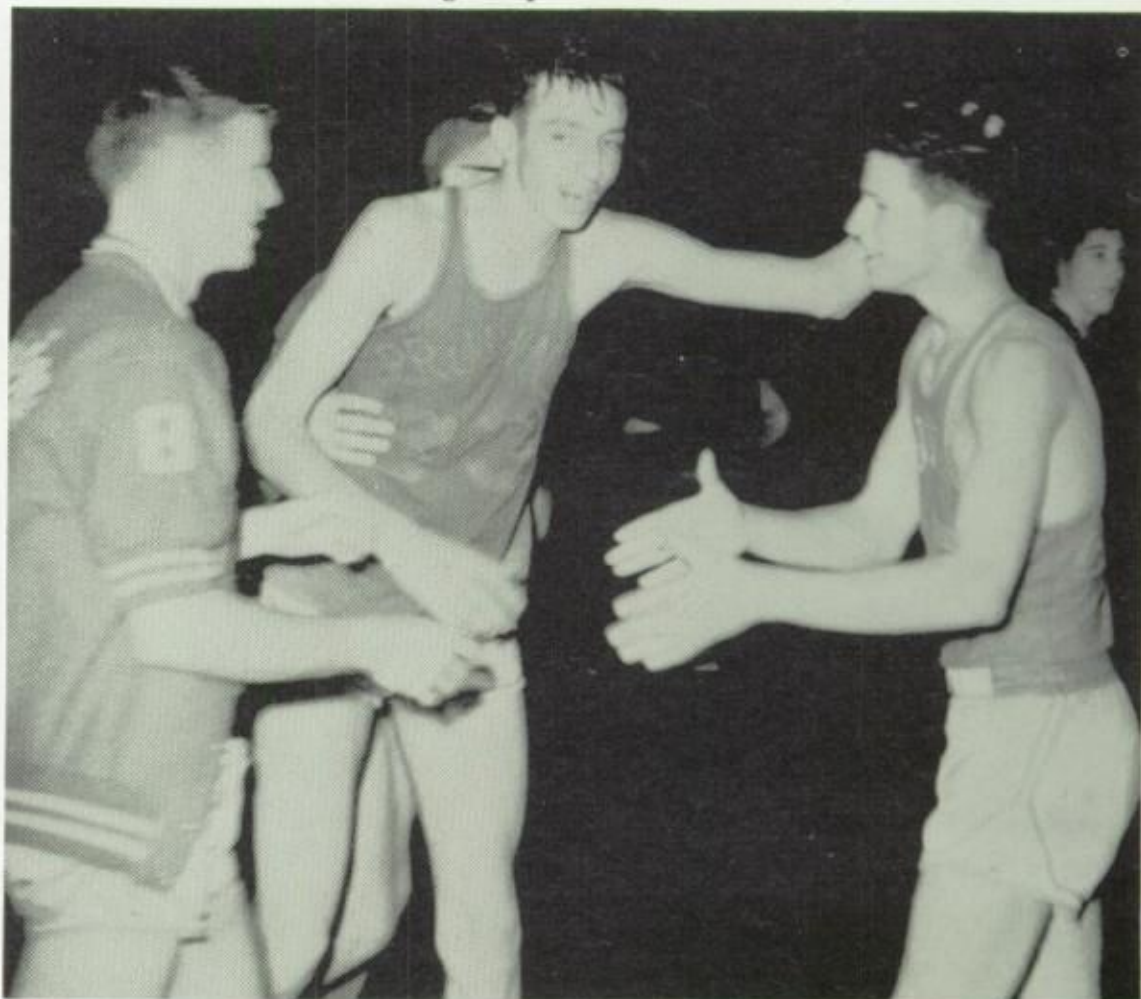

While Charles Pace and Ricky Hartzog stand ready, Tommy Page decides that the only way to win is to get down and scrap.

Tournament Laurels Fall to Worthy Rams

Success crowned by a Murrah Tournament championship sees Provine's victorious cage-men gathering round the speaker to receive the trophy.

For their efforts throughout the long basketball season and in the various tournaments, several Rams received awards in recognition of their superior standard of play.

In leading the Rams to a Murrah Tournament victory, Ricky Shaw, Mickey Vitt, and Charles Pace were named to the All-Tournament team.

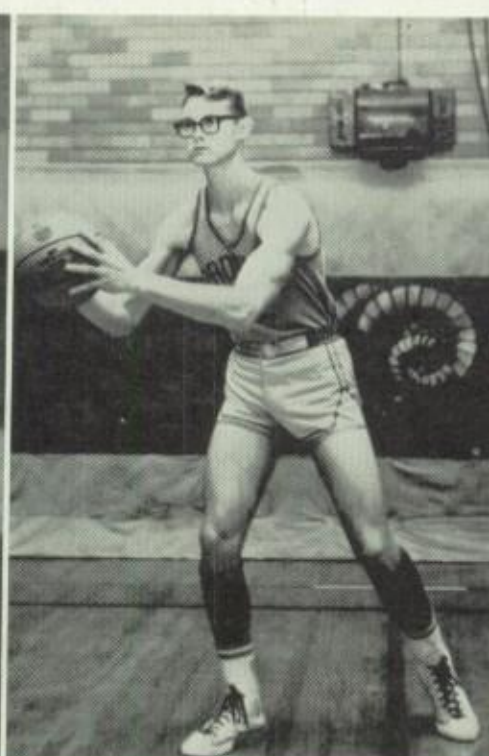

Pace continued to reap honors in the Hinds County and South Big Eight tournaments. Joining Pace in the award circle of the South Big Eight affair was sophomore Ricky Hartzog, and in the Hinds Tournament was Ricky Shaw. The Rebel Classic saw Mickey Vitt win recognition.

Fighting Rams Fare Well in Tournament Play

The red and gray ventured to several tournaments during the year and most often fared well. The South Big Eight Tournament saw the Rams lose to Hattiesburg after an inspired effort in the first-game win against Pascagoula.

The team drew much worthy praise after capturing the trophy in the Murrah Tournament. It was the first tournament of the season, and each of the three triumphs was the result of all-out team play. Madison-Ridgeland, Forest Hill, and Central were the teams that lost to the Ram surge.

In the Rebel Classic, the second tournament of the season, the Rams advanced to the second round, as they later did in the South Big Eight Tournament. Clinton fell to the Rams before a revengeful Forest Hill eliminated Provine from further play.

A determined Central Tiger outlasted Provine in the first round of the Hinds County Tournament and kept the team from showing their wares against any of the other teams in the championship match. The District Six Tournament brought similar results. A rough-and-ready Vicksburg was waiting for the Rams, and the result was an unexpected defeat. Everyone was dismayed at the loss, but still could look back at a good overall record of success.

Rams' B-Team Achieves 13-2 Season Record

Responding with its traditional effectiveness, the Provine B-Team basketball squad churned out another outstanding season. Just two setbacks marred what was otherwise a perfect record.

Basketball fans at Provine got more than a usual quota of thrills from the action by these boys, for the baby Rams' games were all thrillers from beginning to end.

Only Central held sway over the little Rams by beating them in two contests. Their other opponents, among which were Murrah, Forest Hill, Vicksburg, Natchez, McComb, Brookhaven, and Clinton, could only take the losses the B-team dealt out to them.

Thinclads Envision Big Year on Cinders

After two very successful seasons the last two years, the track team, under head coach Hollis Rutter, was hopeful for another good spring of action.

Seven lettermen from last year's squad returned to run again. They were from a team that last year upheld Provine's growing track reputation. That team placed second in the Canton Rotary and Provine Invitational, with a large field of teams in the Canton meet. In the gigantic Jackson Daily News Relays, the rugged Rams placed second again, as they later did in District Six and South Mississippi competition. Those meets were the roads to the State Championship meet, where Provine distinguished itself as the state's number six track team.

The "fleet feet" placed second best in the city, as they did in the Big Eight meet later on. Only state-champ Murrah kept the Rams from winning in most of their meets, as they won every meet against the Rams.

Returning Lettermen Form Nucleus of Track Team

Returning lettermen from last year's track team were depended on to lead the Rams to another successful season. The lettermen, along with newcomers, brought honors to Provine by their performances in the Canton Rotary, the Jackson Daily News Relays, the Big Eight, and the State meets.

The Jackson Daily News Relays see Tommy Johnson and Johnny Richardson exchange the baton with the Rams ahead in the 440-yard relay.

Tennis Team Captures State Crown

Tennis was a success story at Provine last year. The Ram netters swept through eight regular season matches and then earned themselves the City, District Six, and State Championships. This made them the first team in Provine's sport history to attain a perfect-record season.

With the loss of only two starting players and the addition of several junior high players, the prospects of Provine winning the state championship again this year were very good. A rough schedule awaited the netters before they had a chance to defend their title. Murrah and Laurel had very strong teams which faced the Rams in head-to-head competition. Playing consistent tennis, the team ended another winning season, adding more trophies to their already numerous collection.

Team Accomplishes Provine First

Through long hours of practice, the Provine tennis team achieved a success story without precedent. With the glitter of silver second to the sincere desire for true competition, the Ram netters employed physical fitness and mental ability in attaining their success.

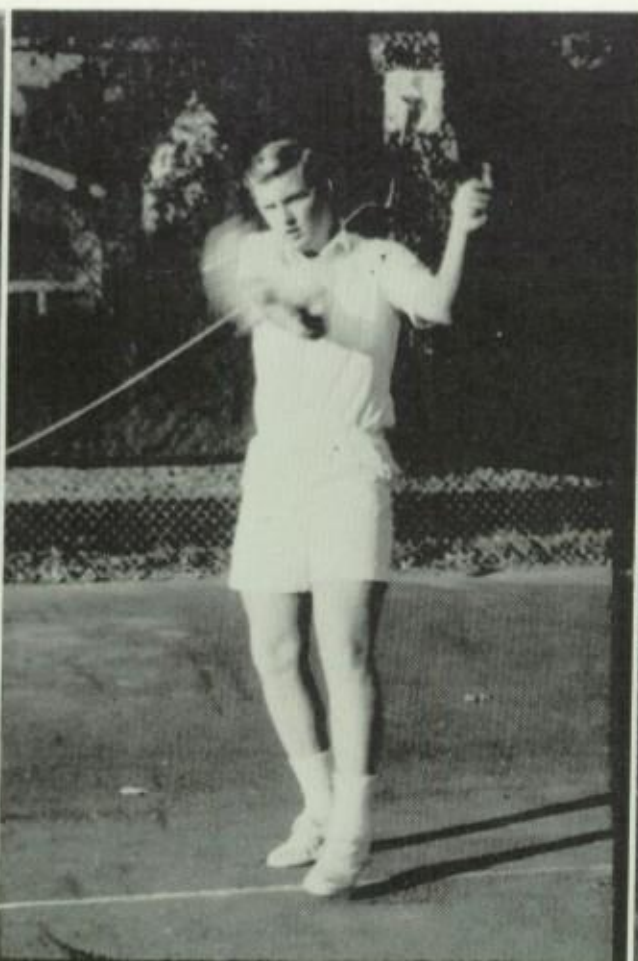

The team looked forward to the summer with its tournaments and opportunities to meet new friends. Several players intended to follow the tournament circuit, which included local, state, southern, and national events.

Linksmen Surge With Promising Season

Provine's fine golf team, ably coached by Ben "Chief" Taylor, swept early opponents in their wake. These early successes promised Provinites another fine golf season. Each day the Rams practiced long hours at school, at home, or on the golf course perfecting their swings, grips, and styles.

With nearly thirty players going out, "Chief" Taylor's golfers displayed much enthusiasm in competing for the starting spots. After these positions were filled, the greensmen proceeded to add up a season record that was a credit to the team.

Eight Returning Lettermen Aid '65 Baseballers

The Ram baseballers with the aid of eight returning lettermen led Provine to many thrill-packed games in the 1965 baseball season. Although the District Six competition was tough, coaches Billy Irby and Tommy Hudson were very proud of their season accomplishments.

The diamondmen started practice at the first of March, but many returning lettermen, along with the newcomers, had been getting into shape since early fall. With more than sixty players going out for the baseball team, competition became rugged, with the starting spots going to those players who were most deserving.

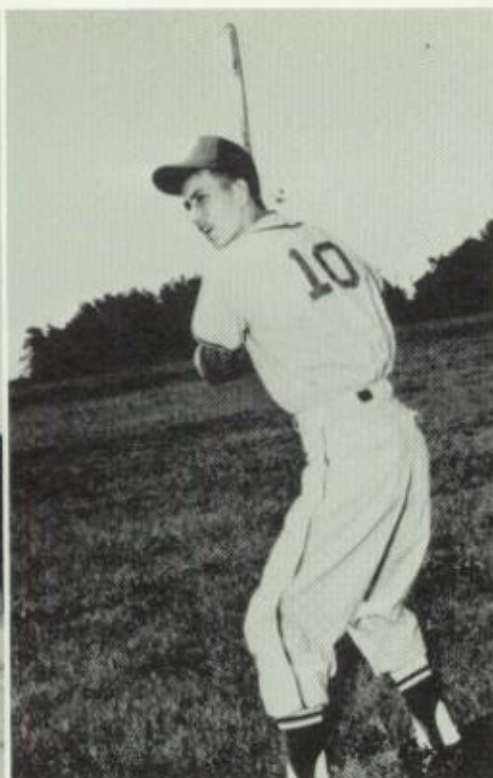

Coaches Tommy Hudson and Billy Irby discuss the purchase of new equipment and uniforms for Provine's forthcoming baseball season.

Rams Start Early In Game Preparation

Each day the Rams practiced two to three hours in preparation for the season's games with city and district teams. These long practice sessions enabled them to whip into shape a team worthy of recognition. Coach Irby's practice sessions, although hard and strenuous, proved to be the building block of a fine team.

Coach Tommy Hudson, in his first year as assistant baseball coach at Provine, worked his B-team as determined as any in preparation for their seasonal games in the district and city.

The old slogan "practice makes perfect" could well suit the Rams, but the better slogan, as far as the baseballers were concerned, was "perfect practice makes perfect."

Rams Face Tough District Six Competition

Although not officially listed in the regular season schedule, the Rams opened their 1965 baseball season with games in the Murrah Invitational Tournament. Besides this tournament the Rams also participated in other District Six tournaments during the course of the season and represented Provine well with their fine showings on the field and their outstanding sportsmanship both on and off the field.

Competition in the District Six, the state's toughest baseball district, and with rivals Central and Murrah gave Provine's diamond fans many thrills and exciting moments during the season. Encounters with the Central Tigers, last year's state champions, always brought thousands of Jacksonians to Battlefield Park to witness these thrilling games.

Coach Irby, in his last season as head mentor of the Ram's baseball team, led Provine in its conquest of the District Six competition and its advancement toward the city, district, and state crowns.

Managers for Provine's 1965 baseball team are Bordeaux Bradshaw and Tommy Blake.

Gym Helps to Promote Physical Fitness

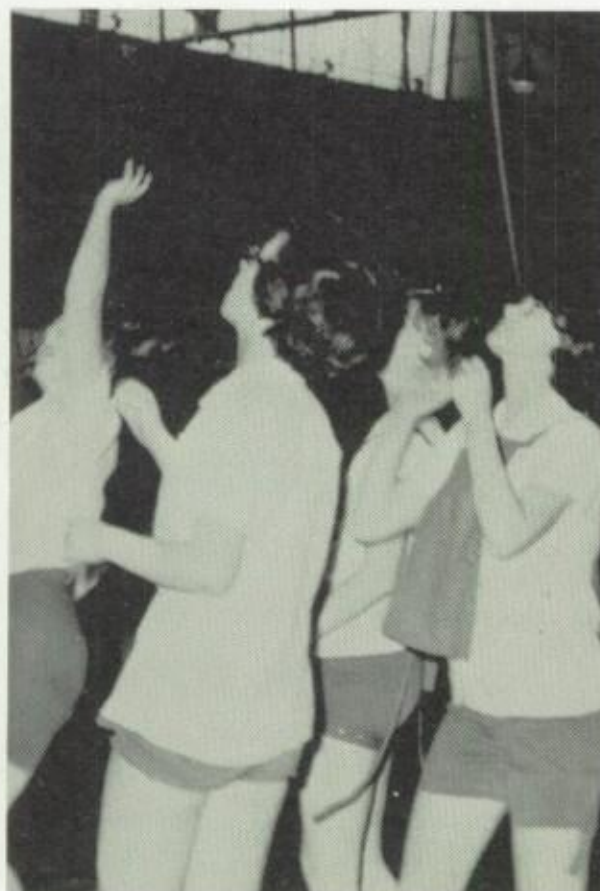

Gym, the one period of the day when Rams could forget books, homework, and problems, was a time to enjoy competition with others in the class. It was a time to run out frustrations on the basketball court and a time to enjoy beautiful spring weather during a baseball game.

The all-American aim of physical fitness was emphasized by push-ups, sit-ups, and sprints to the tune of "one! two! three! four!" shouted by the gym assistants.

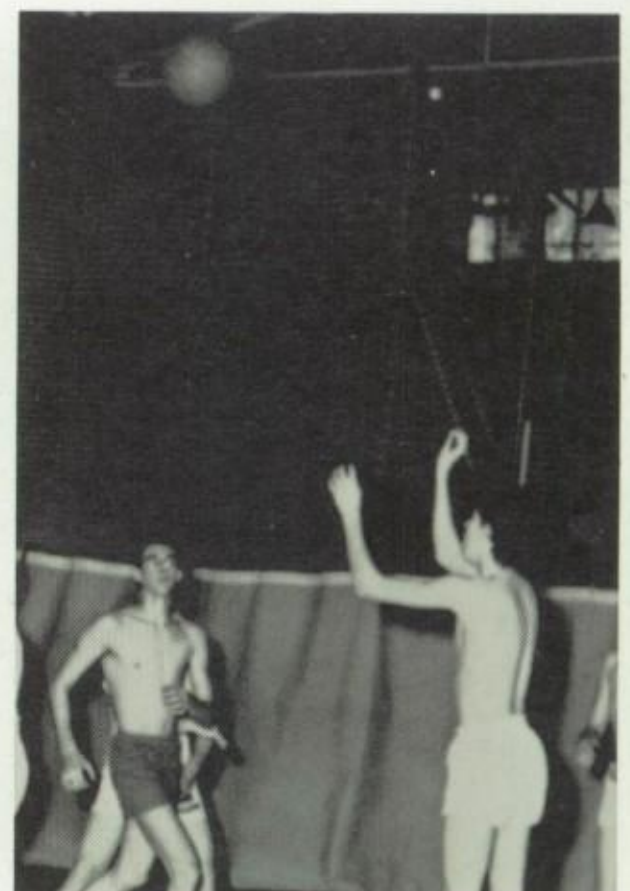

Only through an intensive program of complete physical fitness and mature mental attitude could the spirited fall, winter, and spring sports be played with complete individual team effort.

Development of complete physical abilities of the student is a prime objective of the physical education course. Senior Mike Carr gives "an all out effort" to make a basket.

STUDENT LIFE

Due to the increase in number of portable classrooms, Provine students find themselves inconvenienced to the point of racing to class in order to beat the bell.

Doors Open to Provine's World of Progression

In the midst of a hectic day, sophomores Eddie Polk and Debbie Buck pause to rest and share a moment's chat between classes.

Opening its doors for the tenth year, Provine again welcomed those students desiring a happy and meaningful high school education. Despite all the fond remembrances of the vacations, memories of summer and all its pleasures quickly faded in preference of the business at hand—school, five days a week.

One of the first adjustments to be made was that of getting used to the brisk pace of the six periods a day. Each school day was filled with subjects, tests, clubs, and many extracurricular activities. Each factor of the students' life filled their time to the fullest.

The temporary classrooms, a relatively new factor at Provine, forced many members of the student population to stretch their legs, regardless of the weather.

The faculty of Provine, one of the finest in the nation, proved to be good friends to the students—besides instructors. Separate talents were attended to, and each Provinian was considered to be an individual worthy of attention.

Throughout all the work and hardships at Provine, combined with the joy of accomplishment and the satisfaction of friendship, every student felt a special pride for his school.

Enthusiastic Spirit Pervades Halls of Provine

Symbolizing the very definition of Provine was the infectious spirit of unity which characterized each day from fall to spring. Pep rallies were lively exhibitions of this spirit, as were Class Capers, "Pajama Game," and many other projects. Yet, the spirit itself was accomplished by each individual who sought, labored, and achieved for the betterment of himself and his school.

That feeling of keen competition between classes and individuals, forged with a deeper spirit of unity, was the determining factor in the success of this memorable year. Inherent in the connotation of this spirit were love, loyalty, and devotion. These were incentives to progress.

Faculty members, Mr. Doty, Mr. Hutchinson, and Mr. Hopkins, lend their talents to promote school spirit during a pep rally.

Provine Cheerleaders Capture Mid-South Trophy

School spirit was an intangible—almost indefinable—quality which collected and united students in one common desire—the desire for only the best at Provine.

Leading, encouraging, and exemplifying this spirit were the Ram cheerleaders, who captured the Mid-South Cheerleader Championship for their fifth straight year. From pom-pom parties to pep rallies, they unceasingly illuminated the qualities of good sportsmanship and lively competition for which the entire student body strove.

Win, lose, or draw, the Provine Mid-South Champions never failed to achieve success as their goal, progress through spirit.

Leading Provine's spirit this year are Debbie Gilley, Nancy Wells, Sue Carroll, Becky Felts, Terry Young, Debbie Buck, Donna Wren, and Judy Gordon.

PTA, Workers, New Pupils Are Vital to Progress

Parents of Provine students showed their interest in educating young people as they paid membership dues and joined the Provine P.T.A. at the first meeting of the year.

The Provine PTA, led by an able council, met four times this year to promote a closer relationship between the home and school and to develop understanding between educators and the general public. Stimulating programs were presented by faculty members, parents, and students, in addition to such outstanding features as Back To School Night.

A number of new students transferred to Provine this year from a variety of places. These new students were welcomed with a warm smile and a friendly hello as they became an integral part of Provine. Helping to promote this friendly atmosphere were the girls who ably assisted in the three offices.

Kaleidoscope of Activities Tops Entertainment Scene

Originality and talent—common characteristics of numerous Provine Rams—helped provide entertainment for the student body, as well as promote unity and cooperation among the classes and individual students. These same characteristics carried many of Provine's exceptionally talented beyond their immediate borders into wider areas of fame. A willingness to work hard, a desire to learn through experience, and a time for recreation complemented the ability of Provinians making them fuller and better human beings.

Homecoming Royalty Comprise Stately Court

With rising anticipation Provine students approached the week of Homecoming; excitement reigned throughout the week as Provinians prepared for the annual event. Pep-ribbon day, red and gray day, and sweat-shirt day all made way for a thrilling pep rally on Friday, October 30, the day of the big game.

During the game everyone was perched on the edge of his seat from the first kick-off to the final seconds of the 27-27 thriller against the Homecoming foe, the Biloxi Indians.

The highlight of the game was, of course, the Homecoming festivities. After excellent field maneuvers by Provine's championship band, fanfares announced each Homecoming Maid. Sophomore maid, Patty McLemore and junior maid, Ginger Ditto preceded the senior maids, Sarah Jones, Dot Price and Linda Polk. Then came the awaited moment; Linda Polk was crowned Homecoming Queen.

Climaxing the eventful day was the Homecoming dance in the Olympic room with music furnished by the Knights of Leland. Then came the close of the festive day, Homecoming, 1964.

The entire cast of "Lotti-Tot" receives a well-deserved curtain call for their outstanding accomplishments in Class Capers.

Sophomores Make Debut in "Lotti-Tot" Skit

Cookie Goodman, illustrating the sophomore's theme of back to the farm, relaxes backstage after the sophomore performance.

Utilizing unique talent and wit, the sophomore class came up with a near winner in the annual Class Capers. "Lotti Tot," the story of a country girl who lived with her parents and was in love with a typical country boy, Lurch, was the skit the sophomores chose for their caper. Lotti was getting tired of all the work which had to be done on the farm. She was even tired of the country entertainment and Lurch, her beau.

Then her whole future was changed when a city-slicker came to the Tot's house selling health tonic. He invited her to come with him to New York City and try to make good on Broadway. She went and was immediately a hit as a singer.

Lurch and the country folks were anxious to see Lotti in the big city, so they traveled to New York and helped celebrate Lotti's grand debut on Broadway.

"Let me entertain you," sings the new Broadway sensation, Lotti-Tot, portrayed by Suzy Gray in the sophomores' Class Capers.

Judy Blaine, alias "the Great Old Lady," demands to know what has taken place. Buddy Potter, "Johnny Cool," points out caveman Jerry Scoggins who has just torn to pieces the surf king's board.

"The Great Old Lady's" favorite pet, Genevieve—the elephant, prances across the stage to "Baby Elephant Walk" in the juniors Class Capers skit, "Surfside Story."

Juniors' "Surfside Story" Endears Favorite Fad

Time flew for three nights as the juniors carried their audiences back 9,876,543,211½ years in history in their hilarious skit, "Surfside Story." The initial setting, however, was a modern one, characterized by Johnny Cool, who was the gang's "Surf King," his surfer friends, and his cousin Oglethorpe, the squarest of the squares.

While showing Oglethorpe his best trick, Johnny "wiped out," knocking himself unconscious and was carried back billions of years in time to a primitive African village. The inhabitants were so primitive they didn't even know what a skateboard was and unknowingly tore Johnny's to pieces. When he awoke and discovered his unfortunate situation, he decided that the only thing to do was to build a skateboard factory. This furnished him, as well as the natives, with a new surfboard and revolutionized the society of the inhabitants. Even the village witch, commonly known as the "Great Old Lady," was captivated by Johnny and his sport and confessed that it was she who had brought Johnny to the village.

Things went back to normal again when Johnny wiped out once more and found himself awakening among his friends on the familiar Surf Avenue. Unbelievably they listened to an account of his experiences but began to doubt their sanity when "the Great Old Lady" whizzed up on her skateboard.

The big moment has come. The deafening roar of cheers and screams instantly ceases. Yet, in this last moment before the decision is announced, the realization comes that it's not who wins or loses, but how we play the game.

Before the curtain goes up, concerted efforts backstage must be initiated. Here Debbie Cameron, Donna Kirby and Lanelle Freeman pin together the junior's scenery for Class Capers.

Seniors put the finishing touches on "Panic in Pan Land" during dress rehearsals of Class Capers.

Ecstatic Seniors Triumph With Rousing Skit

The Provine stage was transformed into never-never land when the seniors produced their award-winning skit of Class Capers, "Panic in Pan Land." Agents Neopole Group and Seymour Less were sent by the world crime-fighting organization, U.L.C.E.R., to Pan Land. Their orders were to prevent a war between Pan's people and the Indians. Disputes had arisen over royalties from Pan's famous book. The Indians felt they deserved some of the money, but Pan refused to pay them until he met their new chief, the beautiful Chick Chickasaw. When his men discovered that their leader had fallen in love with one of the enemy, they were outraged. However, due to the efforts of Group and Less, everyone decided to live together, peacefully and Pan got the girl.

The senior class scored a first this year by winning the Class Capers trophy for their third straight year.

"Oonie-koonie-kai-yai-oonie" sing the Indians and U.L.C.E.R. agents during the tribal celebration.

David Sanford, Rebecca Rayfield, and Maurice Nassar justifiably express their happiness at the announcement of the seniors' victory in Class Capers.

Rams Journey to Scholastic Press Conventions

Soon after the excitement of staff elections in April of last year, newly elected members of the Rambler and Aries trekked to Ole Miss to prepare for their important responsibilities that they would undertake in the fall. Two chartered buses left early on a spring morning to attend the Mississippi Scholastic Press Association. It was a workshop staffed with experienced men and women in the fields of layout, copy, and business management of yearbooks and newspapers. A dance for the delegates on Friday night and a luncheon on Saturday were features of the convention that promoted fun and fellowship among the students from over the state.

Sixteen enterprising young Provinites, chaperoned by the sponsors of the Aries and the Rambler journeyed to Chicago during the chilly Thanksgiving holidays for the National Scholastic Press Association. Delegates from over the nation pooled their problems and ideas into meaningful sessions conducted by nationally-known journalists. Provine's Rambler received the Pacemaker Award during the Friday banquet of the convention.

Attending the National Scholastic Press Association in Chicago are Janice Nichols, Dot Price, Gail McHorse, Peg Smith, Bill Hester, Annie Harris Kirkham, Buz Campbell, Mary Ann McDonald, Scotty Smith, Elaine Nejam, Gay Smith, Mr. Hubert Staley, and Mrs. Mary Tom Bradley.

The first National Honor Society Convention was held at Murrah where Provine captured the office of vice-president. Pace VanDevender, Kay King, and Mr. James Easom were the Provine delegates to the all-day convention.

Jimmy Duckworth and Pete Cajoleas were selected by the Student Council to represent Provine at the Mississippi Association of Student Councils at Vicksburg, where Provine ran for president.

Conventions, Conferences Spark Leadership Initiative

Ability and leadership were two qualities which Provine students displayed in numerous conventions that were held throughout the year on the local, state, regional, and national levels.

In early August, excited Rams joined Latin students from over the state and journeyed by bus to the University of Illinois. There they met students from over the nation for the National Junior Classical League Convention. After spending three days at the convention, these Provine students trekked to New York City to visit the fabulous New York World's Fair.

Student Council executives attended workshops to develop a better working knowledge of student government and a more effective administration of school laws.

With broader concepts learned from training and surer confidence gained with experience, Rams were a more mature group which faced the responsibilities of the future with assurance.

SCOPE Conference delegates from Provine were Pete Cajoleas, Becky Buck, Brett Adams, Jo Ann Bradley, Ralph Sulser, and Louise Runge.

Elected to represent Provine at the Southern Association of Student Councils held in Jacksonville Beach, Florida, were capable Jon Bond, Linda Caston, and Student Council sponsor, Mr. Kenneth Lundquist.

Even before school started, Rams prepared for the responsibilities which they would assume in the fall. Student Council officers Sandra Allen, Becky Buck, Jimmy Duckworth, and Johnny Richardson attended the Student Council Workshop held at Belhaven College to acquaint them with their duties.

Jets, JCL, Hi-Y Meet for Discussion

JCL members enjoy the initiation of new members, complete with cookies, sandwiches, and punch.

Future engineers gathered from all over the state to attend the State JETS convention. Provine delegates were Miss Collum, Mrs. Calvert, Dan Emrick, Linda Thompson, Russell Ingram, Sam Nichols, and Terry Thrash.

Ronald Adams, John Burns, Bobby Keifer, Richard Fore, and Pat Prather attended the Tri-Hi-Y Leadership Council as representatives of the two Boys' Hi-Y Clubs at Provine.

Rambler Presents Who's Who; "World of

Personalities were created in Provine's world of progress; they were the people who strove for excellence, offered their talents, supplied the wit, bolstered the spirits, or simply contributed a smile. The night of January fourteenth found the personalities of progress honored at the Rambler's fifth annual Who's Who program.

Sophomores featured in Provine's annual Who's Who were Lou Austin and Alton Waggener, Most Likely to Succeed; Bethany Brock and Brett Adams, Most Outstanding; Linda Caston and Scotty Buffington, Most Dependable; Debbie Buck and Mike Harris, Most Admired.

Sophomores featured in Provine's annual Who's Who were Nancey McKellar and Donnie Carruth, Best Natured; Ralene Reeves and Mike Grisham, Most Optimistic; Judy Keyes and Curtis Kilpatrick, Wittiest; Debbie Gilley and Johnny Flynt, Most School Spirit; Judy McDonald and Sam Armstrong, Friendliest.

"Color" Sparkles Personalities of Progress

This year the pageant depicted the "Wonderful World of Color" and featured such talent as The Dittos, a pantomime group from Provine, Jimmy Sacca, The Suite Sixteens, a group from Provine's Stage Band, and The Casuals, a singing trio from Forest Hill.

These groups entertained the audience between each presentation of personalities and blended Provine talent and that of other local groups into a professionally rendered production.

Juniors featured in Provine's annual Who's Who were Sandy Lynam and Hubert Worley, Most Dependable; Vicki Newcomb and Jeff Livesay, Most Likely to Succeed; Shirley Hagerman and Jim Hawk, Most Admired; Louise Runge and Pete Cajoleas, Most Outstanding.

Juniors featured in Provine's annual Who's Who were Kaye King and Goober Overby, Friendliest; Pam Stacy and Danny Woods, Most Optimistic; Cherie Arceneaux and Tim Tucker, Wittiest; Vicki Farr and Larry Waltman, Best Natured; Terry Young and Don Shanks, Most School Spirit; Judy Blaine and Buddy Potter, Most Talented.

Seniors featured in Provine's annual Who's Who were Carolyn Craig and Jimmy Duckworth, Most Outstanding; Linda Polk and Pace Van Devender, Most Dignified; Joy Waggener and Jim Netherton, Most Likely to Succeed.

Rambler Recognizes Seniors for Worthy Service

Each class had previously elected their elite to the fourteen categories for the sophomores and juniors and fifteen categories for the seniors, which signified the most appreciated elements in the student body.

With the fading of the last applause, another Who's Who show had ended, but students would go on striving, seeking, and achieving so that progress might continue to be accomplished at Provine.

Senior personalities, Marvin Preslar and Sandra Allen, eagerly wait backstage to be presented at the Rambler's annual Who's Who Pageant.

Seniors featured in Provine's annual Who's Who were Gay Smith and Ben Wall, Most Optimistic; Myra Williams and Ronald Adams, Best Natured.

"Pajama Game" Depicts Progress Through Dramatics

Sewing machines hummed busily as the curtain came up on Provine's production of "Pajama Game," George Abbot and Richard Bissel's hit musical. Taking on the giant task of direction was Mrs. Katherine Rankin; Mr. Charles Richey and Mr. Jack Jones were the musical directors, and Nelda Rankin was choreographer. All these and the cast, chorus, dancers, stage crew, under the direction of Mr. Ralph Gordon, and many others worked diligently to make "Pajama Game" worthwhile entertainment. The result was a superb show.

The play, based on the novel Seven and a Half Cents by Richard Bissel dealt with a threatened strike in a pajama factory over a seven-and-a-half-cent raise and the complications which arise when the grievance committee falls in love with the superintendent. Sid Sorokin, the superintendent, was fighting to keep his job, and Babe Williams, the senior grievance committee, was fighting hard for the seven-and-a-half-cent raise. Love and ingenuity finally saved the day with an agreement about the raise and a reconciliation of Babe and Sid.

"Pajama Game" joined the list of other celebrated Provine productions in providing Jacksonians with outstanding high school entertainment, the tradition of Provine.

All is relaxation and fun as the pajama factory workers enjoy a picnic.

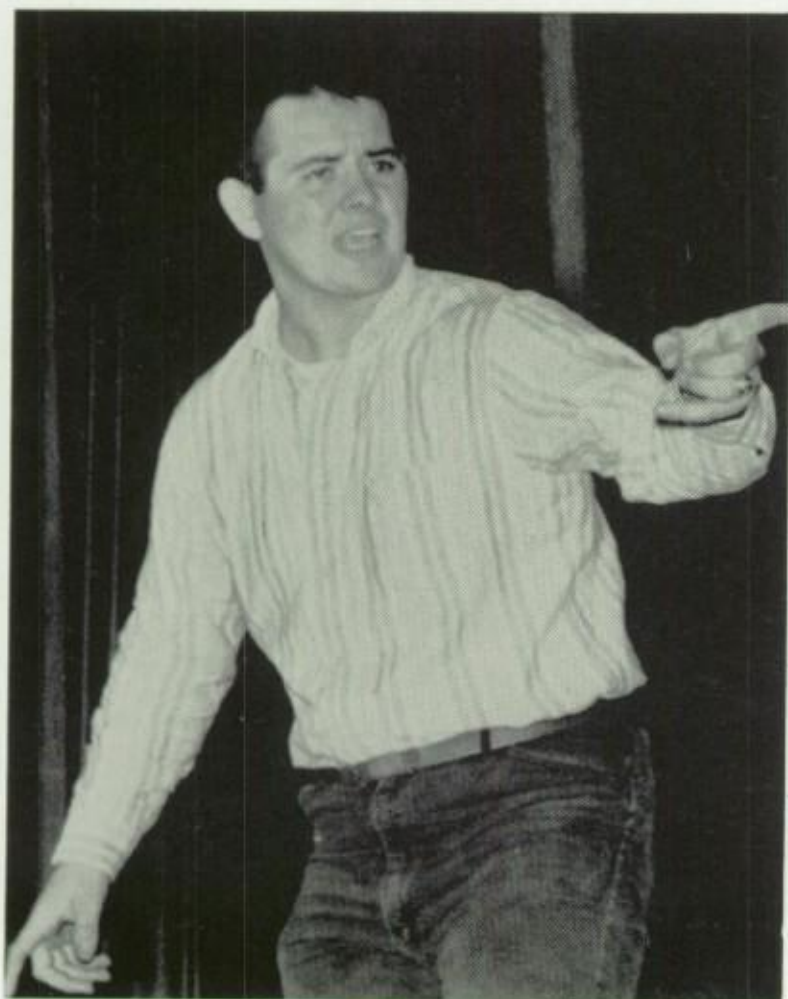

"Mind your own business," instructs Ruth Ann Crout to Charles Malone as a group of "picnickers" look on.

Donnie Morgan as Pres runs through a song and dance routine with Pam Ray, who portrays Gladys.

Babe, Cathy Boyette, warns Sid, Charles Malone, to keep out of her life as she violently jerks away from him.

Portraying Hinsi, Marvin Preslar urges the pajama factory workers to "Hurry Up" in the opening scene of "Pajama Game."

"Steam Heat" dancer Donna McKinnon selects her shoes for the dance as she prepares for dress rehearsal.

Current Events Instill World Awareness

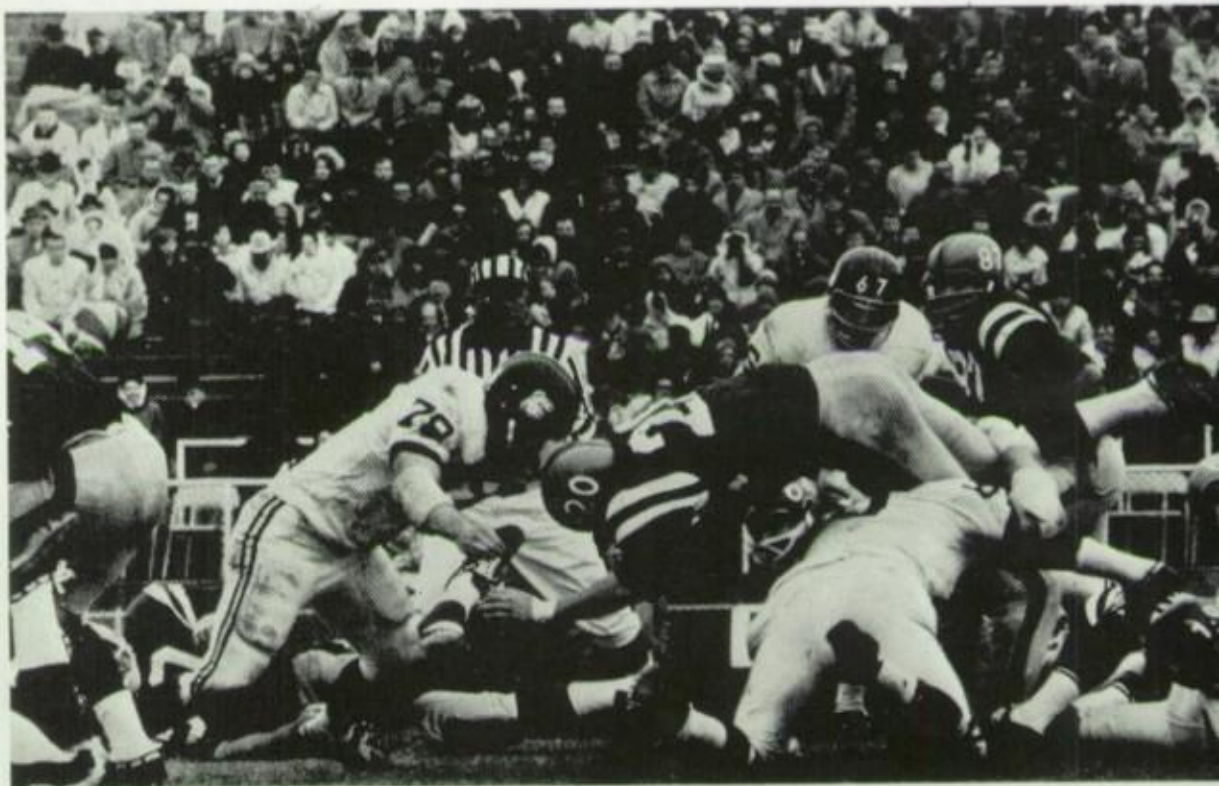

President Lyndon B. Johnson relates to the nation his plan for the Great Society in an address soon after his inauguration.

So small was the world and so wide was the student's interest that the affairs of the farthest nation was of personal importance and immediate concern to every Provine student.

No person could be considered educated without a working knowledge of current events and a deep concern for world affairs. With this in mind, Provine emphasized the study of international events and cultivated an interest in the news as history in the making.

Civics, current events, and debates presented the student with the opportunity of analyzing and discussing world affairs in order to gain new understanding about the world and its daily crises. When his tenure at Provine had ended, he was indeed an informed world citizen with an interest and an understanding of the world, its peoples, and its problems.

Mississippi State University declared a holiday for the student body after the, defeated Ole Miss 20-17 at Oxford in the football upset of the season. Even though this was not considered a world event, it marked the first time that State had defeated Ole Miss in football since 1946.

Republican Senator Barry Goldwater delivers one of his many campaign speeches during the grueling Presidential election in the fall. Senator Goldwater was the first Republican to carry the state of Mississippi since Reconstruction days.

Twice during the school year, after the deaths of Herbert Hoover and Sir Winston Churchill, the flag was lowered to half mast as the nation paid its respect to these two great men.

Sir Winston Churchill, England's man of the century, died at the age of ninety one. His death in London evoked international messages of sympathy and homage from people throughout the world from all walks of life.

Former president Herbert Hoover died in New York at the age of ninety one. The well-known philanthropist, who had given much time and money to bettering the poverty-stricken people of the world, was mourned universally.

Popular opinion finds Mr. Lybarger's doorway the favorite congregating spot in the downstairs hallway. Each morning before 8:15 a lively group gathers to converse. Here one finds Tommy Pantall, Bobby Webb, Diann Adams, Ralph Sulser, and Goober Overby greeting friends and obstructing traffic.

Week at Provine Reveals World of Progress

Sounds of ringing bells and slamming lockers were familiar ones in Provine's world of progress; they signified the constant action and unceasing activity which dominated the curriculum. However, where there was this unceasing activity, there was also routine; the realization of progress necessitated orderly procedure.

Routine and orderly procedure were maintained by a school activities calendar; with this calendar each day the students could concentrate on one specific extracurricular endeavor. Events were announced daily over the public address system, and the "This Week" bulletin board was posted up to date for the convenience of the student body.

Homeroom, or activity period, was devoted to this continuation of activity. A definite system, conducive to the well-rounding of each student, evolved out of the activities available. Although no two weeks were ever exactly the same, a typical week at Provine might have included occurrences such as these.

The activities bulletin board is a subject for attention any morning, but especially this Monday. John Ellis, Linda Harrison, Bill Polk, Cindy Spears, and Linda McDaniel gather to review a busy week of activities.

One of the most familiar scenes is the traditional meeting at a locker. Pace Van Devender and Judy McDonald catch a moment between classes to converse.

Student Council meetings chart the activities course for the entire student body. Here Bethany Brock, Linda Caston, Raleen Reeves, and Bobby Arnold take notes on a Friday night dance proposal.

Futures are decided each and every day as diligent students work toward their occupation goals. Charles Young experiments with a new drafting technique in his mechanical drawing class.

In a graceful effort the Ram cagemen jump for a rebound as Provine meets arch rival Central.

MONDAY—the renewed challenge of a new week brought a return to class and to further study. The Student Council met on Monday mornings to consider proposed activities. Included in this category were special projects, exchange programs, and dances.

TUESDAY—the week was well begun. Momentum gathered and work progressed from the planning stage to the point of execution. Activity period found an enthusiastic crowd gathered in the gym for the liveliest of times—our pep rallies. The evening brought the static excitement of a Central ball game. These were the memories which will long live in the hearts of Provine's students.

Pep rallies and fight songs echo down the halls as a spirited student body gathers in support of the team. Game day enthusiasm reigns!

Club meetings are a regular part of Wednesday mornings. Most organizations vary their programs with speakers such as Mr. Fred Acres, who is lecturing to Sandra Smith and company at a weekly Red Cross meeting.

Receptions bring opportunities to reveal all the training which has been emphasized over the early years of school. Punch and cookies are the favorite fare of Tommy Box, Goober Overby, Ralph Sulser, Gail McHorse, and Dianne Ashford at this Who's Who reception.

Clubs, Games, Pep Rallies Fill Busy Hours

WEDNESDAY—the halfway mark, a week was almost over. Activity period found each and every student participating in the club of his choice. Such organizations proved valuable in the field of service as a means of expression for the individual. Club meetings, programs, speakers, and receptions became an integral part of the school routine.

THURSDAY—the symbol of a job almost done. Activity period found students studying for Friday exams, catching a few moments at an assembly program, or just sitting and thinking.

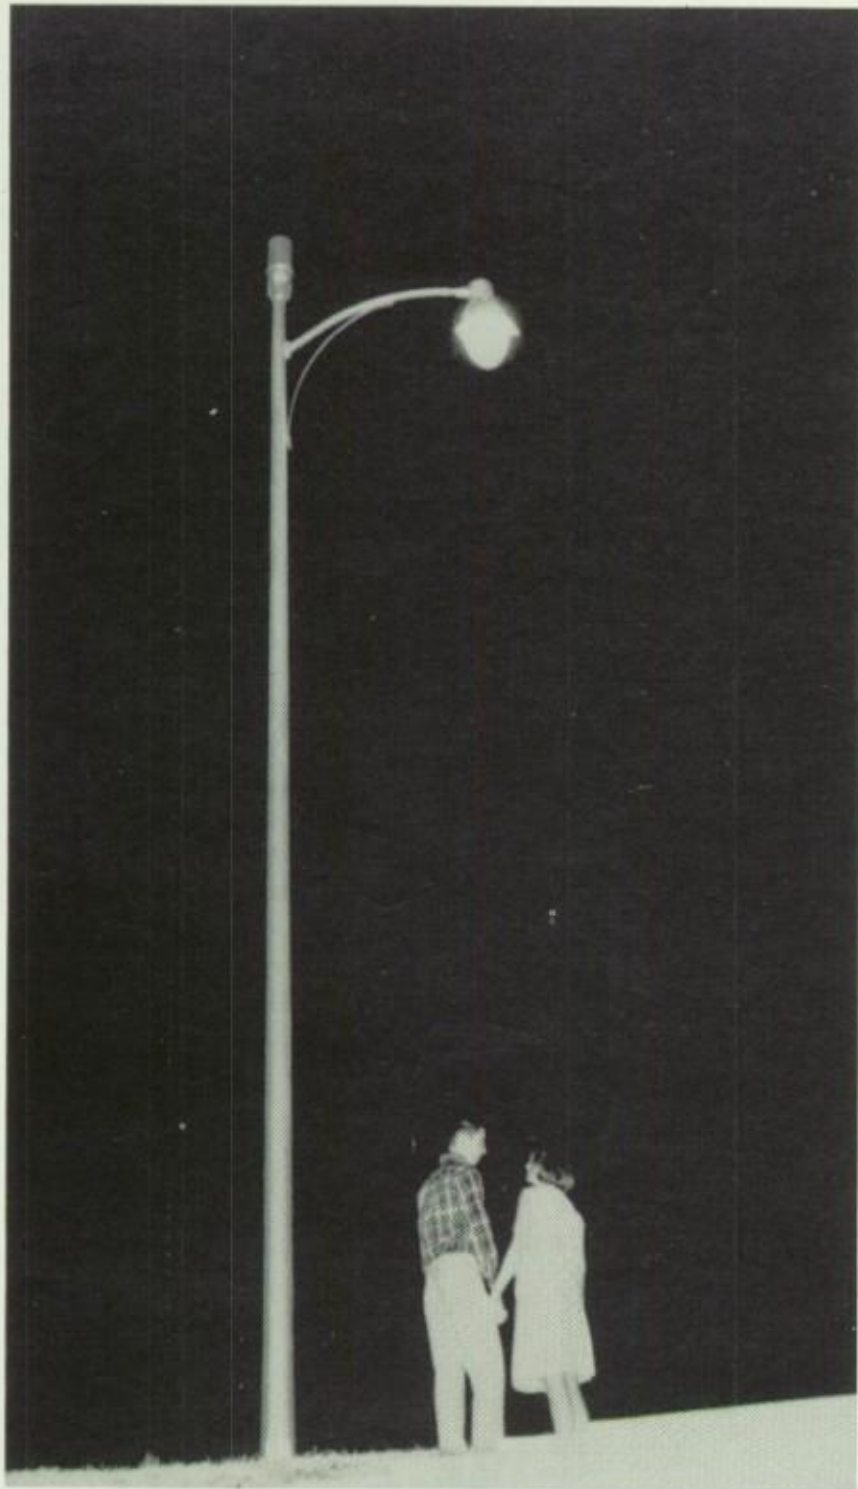

WOODIE

Assembly programs are designed to educate and entertain. Before the program begins, there are brief moments to exchange hello's and bits of gossip. Woodie Williams, Carlie Thompson, and Brantley Bishop converse with members of the fair sex.

Scott Colson, Eddie Crutchfield, and Mike Pressley take a few minutes from a busy day for moments of reflection.

The dance is over. Tomorrow is Saturday with time to forget Monday.

This is 3:16. Moments after the bell has rung, the halls are deserted, and school is a thing of the past, for two days at least.

FRIDAY—the favorite of all days because it symbolized another end to another week. In the past five days students had progressed five steps further toward knowledge. They explored, challenged, and accepted. Now there was time for forgetting responsibility, for relieving tension, and for relaxation.

The ringing of the 3:15 bell on Friday afternoon was a sound unlike any other. In moments the halls became deserted, and all afternoon was turned to other things. Fridays traditionally brought dances in the gym.

Hallways, club meetings, dates, dances, Shoney's, pep rallies, and worlds of other things were included and occurred during the week. Yet this week was not average, for this was an unknown conception at Provine. This was an effort to freeze constant action for just a brief moment.

This school week was completed. Yet, just as surely as that Friday came, so will next Monday, and then there will be another week, for the progression of time was constant.

Friday night finds the gym swinging with enthusiasm to a local band. Here is the completed project of the Monday Student Council meeting.

After school, after dates, and Sunday afternoons, Provinians gather to discuss the dance or to plan for the weekend. Shoney's is a Provine tradition.

Saturdays mean telephone calls and dates. Billy Case rings up Jimmie Brookshire to accompany him to the Capri for "Goldfinger." The James Bond thriller ran for months while Provinians faithfully attended.

Progress Pauses for Weekend and Relaxation

JACKIE ✓

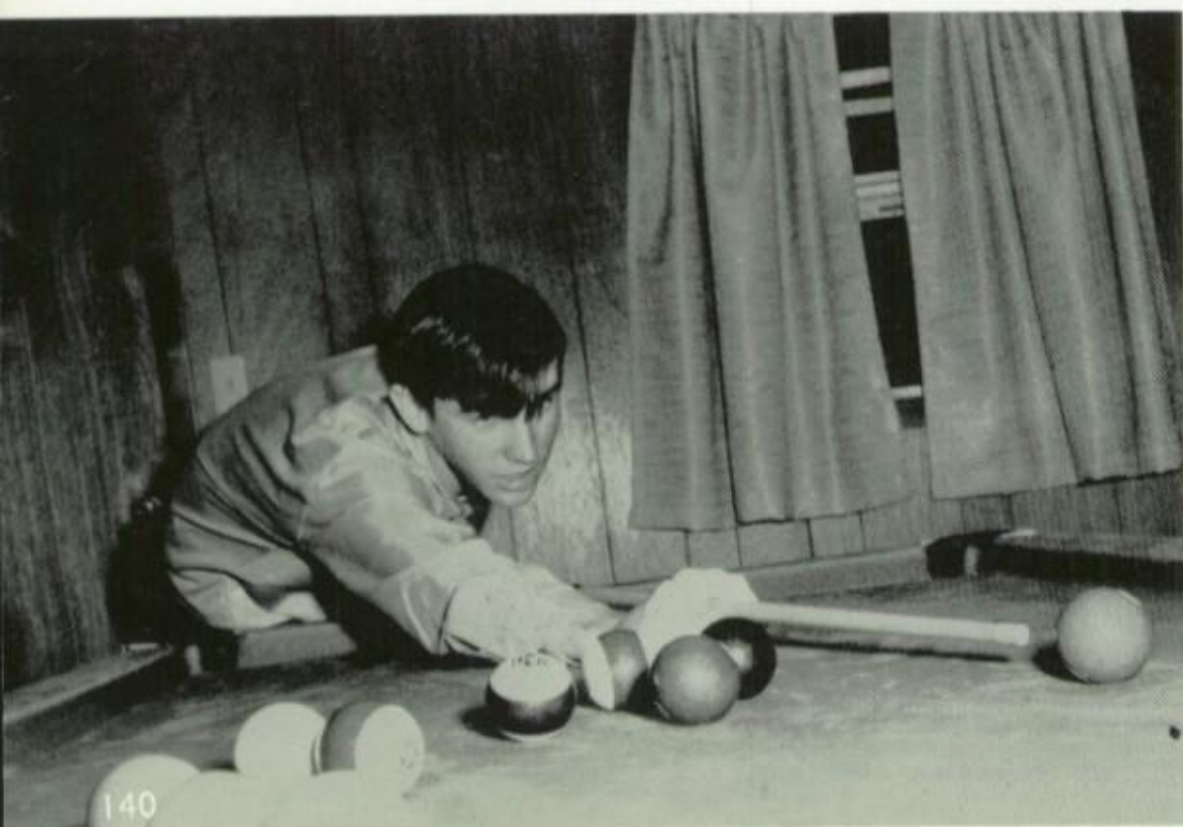

SATURDAY—the world was wonderful! Free from the week-day routine of school, attention was focused on other things. Favorite Saturday pastimes ranged from shooting pool with the guys to washing hair for an afternoon date. Within the scope of this wonderful world was an abundance of challenges; the biggest challenge of all was creating enough hours in the day.

Saturday was the milestone for marking time in the world of progress. It became synonymous with Teen Center, dances, and dates. Alarm clocks were silent; school was forgotten. Monday was future; Saturday was now.

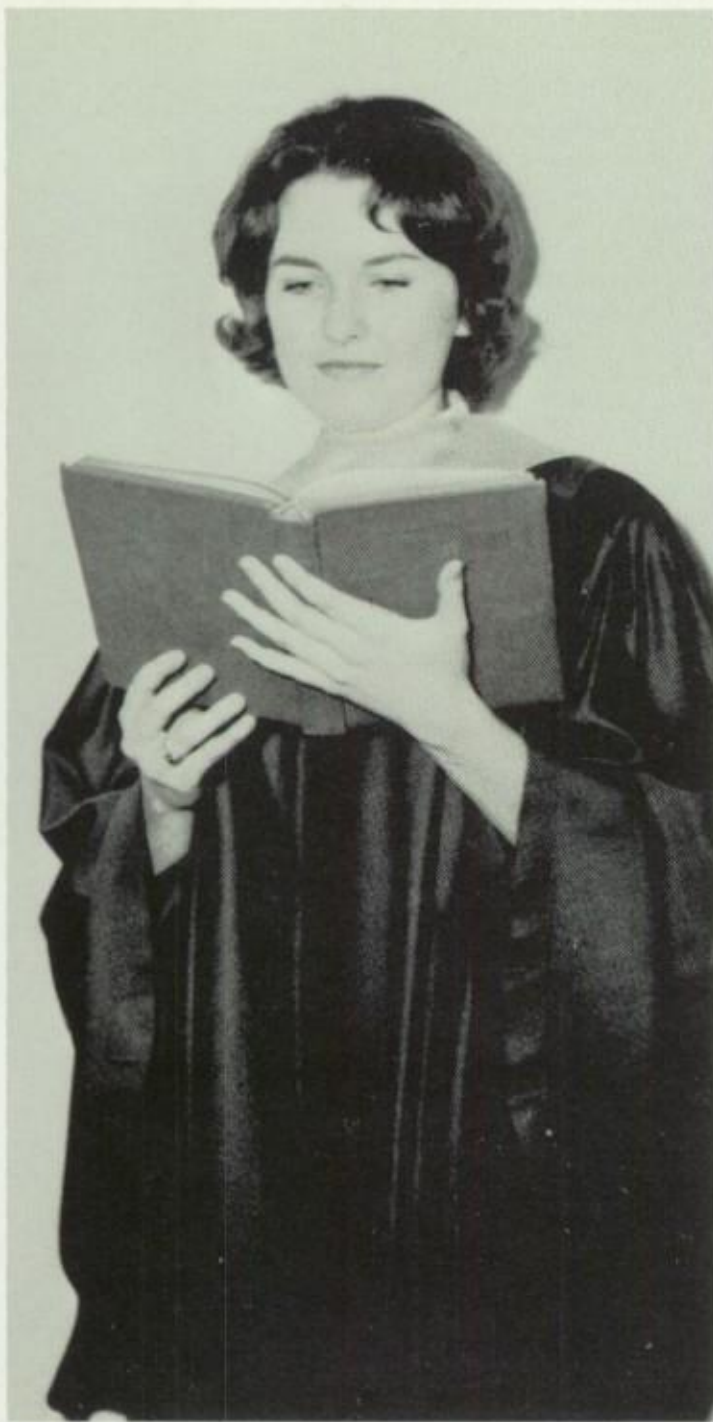

Within the world of progression we strove, achieved, and found time to forget routine—this time was Saturday.

Heavy assignments exact studious concentration from Jackie May as she keeps phone nearby during her study.

Shooting pool dominates many Saturday afternoons, especially for the male faction. Sophomore Louis Runge lines up a difficult shot.

Senior Iva Lou Moffett prepares for a choir rendition in Sunday morning worship service.

Sunday mornings find early risers reading the comic sections. Senior Sandra Allen pauses before dressing for church.

SUNDAY—the world of progress was still. Sunday comic sections were spread over the breakfast tables, and action was focused toward getting dressed for church. Sunday meant the park, Shoney's, touch football, and quietness.

The week transpired and passed into history. Each day had a meaning and a purpose. Each moment was an opportunity; each hour a challenge.

Minds progressed into the future, taking with them the knowledge of the past and making the tomorrows a history of achievement. Time taught well—the lessons of experience. We strove, attained, and progressed. Tomorrow was another beginning.

Sunday afternoon in the park is a portrait of serenity.

National Merit Semi-Finalists are Provine seniors Joy Waggener, Annie Harris Kirkham, Bob Bullard, Pace Van Devender, Bucky Gatewood, Larry Brown and Jim Netherton.

Joy Waggener, Noel Hollyfield, Jon Bond, and Alex Epperson were honored by receiving scholarships to Millsaps College.

Receiving scholarships to Mississippi College are versatile seniors Dianne Bobo and Mildred Myers.

National Merit Rewards Scholastic Endeavor

Academic excellence was the goal of many Provinians.

Competing with students from all over the state and nation, the National Merit Semi-Finalists brought honor to their school by receiving top scores on the NMSQT examinations taken last spring. In order to be finalists, these students also took the CEEB Scholastic Aptitude Test given in December.

Representing the intellectual elite of the senior class were the students in the top five per cent of the class. High scholastic averages like theirs did not just happen by chance. This honor was the result of many hours of study and work throughout their high school careers.

Provine was proud to claim these outstanding students and recognize their abilities and accomplishments.

Mildred Myers was awarded a music scholarship to the University of Southern Mississippi for her outstanding voice and piano talents.

These erudite seniors, Pat Bonnet, Nancy VanZant, and Don Cox, were the recipients of scholarships to Belhaven College on High School Day. Nancy was also awarded a music scholarship.

Scholars Cop Honors in Variety of Fields

Because of their scholastic abilities, many Provine seniors were granted scholarships to universities and colleges throughout the United States. These awards were based on scores from tests, as well as previous grades.

The presentation of the long-hoped-for scholarships signified a dream come true for the ambitious students. Fellow classmates shared in the excitement as honor was bestowed upon Provine.

Colleges used lucrative scholarship offers to attract outstanding and talented students to their respective campuses. On occasions such as High School Day, prospective students were given tours and talks in an effort to acquaint them with the colleges. The students then had the problem of choosing which particular college to attend, and many were influenced by scholarship offers.

By winning the coveted grants, these exceptional individuals were given an opportunity to further their educations and to become outstanding leaders in the world of tomorrow.

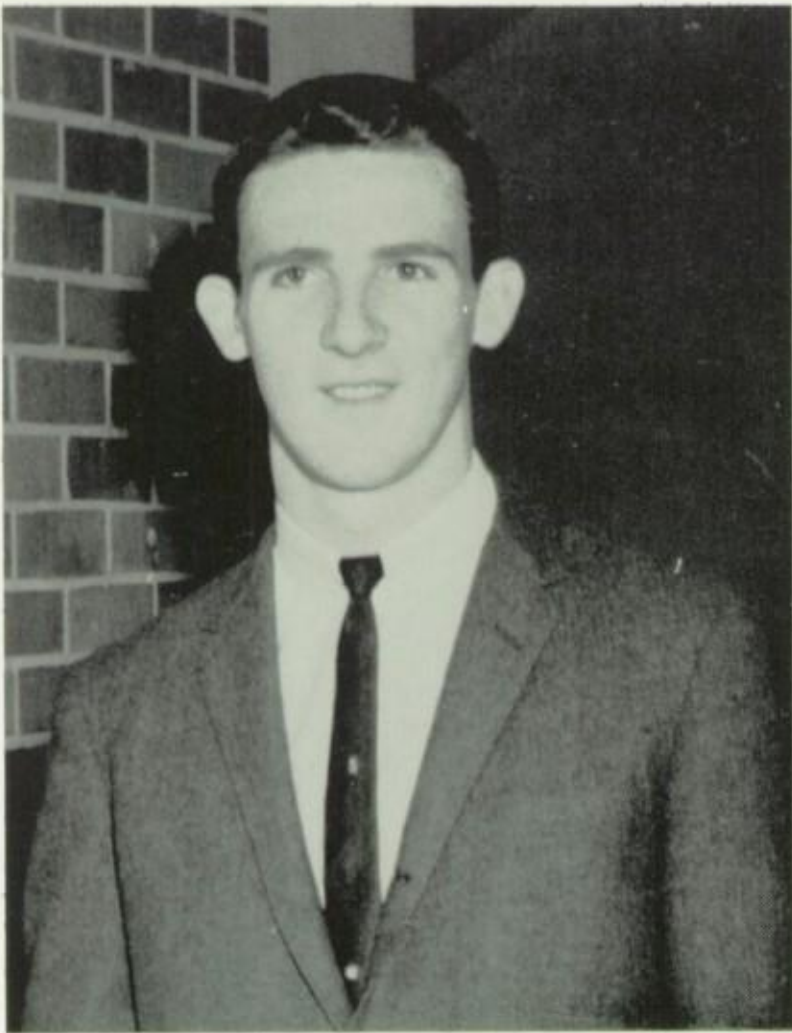

Based on scholastic achievements in science, Pace Van Devender was presented with the Bausch and Lomb Foundation Award.

Honored with a scholarship to Mississippi College was Walton Padelford, versatile Ram senior.

After competing with seniors from all over the state, Jim Netherton and Larry Brown were selected for scholarships on the basis of a test administered by the Certified Public Accountants of Mississippi.

The University of Southern Mississippi honored quarterback Ben Mullins by signing him to a grant-in-aid scholarship based on his outstanding abilities as a gridder.

Ram end, Tommy Noble, one of Provine's outstanding football players, was awarded a grant-in-aid scholarship to the University of Mississippi.

Work, Proficiency Characterize Talented Rams

State High School Boys' Singles Champion, Bill Hester, received a scholarship to Mississippi State University for his unusual ability in the active game of tennis.

Proficiency in their chosen field of endeavor was the objective of many outstanding Provine students. Because of natural ability and many, many hours of practice, they perfected their talents and were recognized by grants of scholarships from colleges and organizations who were interested in the furthering of the student's education.

Two seniors were given national recognition for their musical abilities. They were given the opportunity to tour Europe in the School Band and Chorus of America.

Long hours and many sacrifices represented their achievements as they looked forward to college.

Versatile senior Bill Roberts was chosen to accompany the School Chorus of America on its annual trip to Europe. The talented Ram also received music scholarships to Houston Baptist College, Delta State College, and the University of Southern Mississippi.

Talented trumpeteer Alton Baggett saw years of practice and hard work culminated in his selection to the School Band of America. The Provine band captain will tour Europe with this outstanding group during the summer months.

Honored for their exceptional leadership abilities by the Jackson Rotary Club were Jon Bond, Pace Van Devender, Bobby Arnold, Johnny Richardson, Jimmy Duckworth, Alton Baggett, and Jon Lewis. Each of these boys attended luncheons during the month for which he was selected.

Nominated by the senior class and elected by the faculty, Dot Price received the DAR Good Citizenship Award and the opportunity to compete in the state contest.

Chosen as Pilot Girls were Gail McHorse and Gay Smith. Each was honored at a luncheon and received a silver charm.

Civic Organizations Reward Leadership Ability

Outstanding leadership ability and good citizenship brought civic awards to many of Provine's students this year. Those honored were students who were capable scholastically and who were held in high esteem by both their teachers and their fellow students. Honored by such organizations as the Rotary Club and the DAR, these deserving students were dedicated to Provine and its service. Through extracurricular activities, as well as in the classroom, they demonstrated their abilities. Always they gave of their time and talents to better their school and community. Bringing praise to themselves and their school, these worthy honorees gave of themselves that they might serve.

Senior Joy Waggener made the highest score on the Betty Crocker Homemaking Test and was named "Homemaker of the Year" at Provine.

Selected by the faculty for their all-around participation in school activities were Pace Van Devender and Sue Carroll, recipients of the DAR Good Citizenship Award.

The Optimist Club of Jackson named well-liked seniors Sue Carroll and Mike Beck as the Optimist Club Girl and Boy.

Attending the annual Hi-Y Legislature held in Jackson are Johnny Flynt, Ronald Adams, Mike Beck, Jimmy Duckworth, Paul Jordan, Jon Lewis, John Burns, and Richard Fore.

Given the opportunity to learn first-hand about the functions of state government are seniors Billie Conlee, Gail McHorse, Lorraine Garner, Judy Honeycutt, Jane Wasson, Becky Austin, and Sarah Jones, who were selected for Girls' State.

Provine's delegates to Youth Congress, the Hi-Y Legislature, Boys' and Girls' State were introduced to parliamentary procedure and the perplexities of modern democratic government.

The young law-makers were supervised by experienced adults who taught them the principles of good government and emphasized the importance of parliamentary procedure. In this way a number of Provine students had the opportunity to prepare for future citizenship and possible participation in politics.

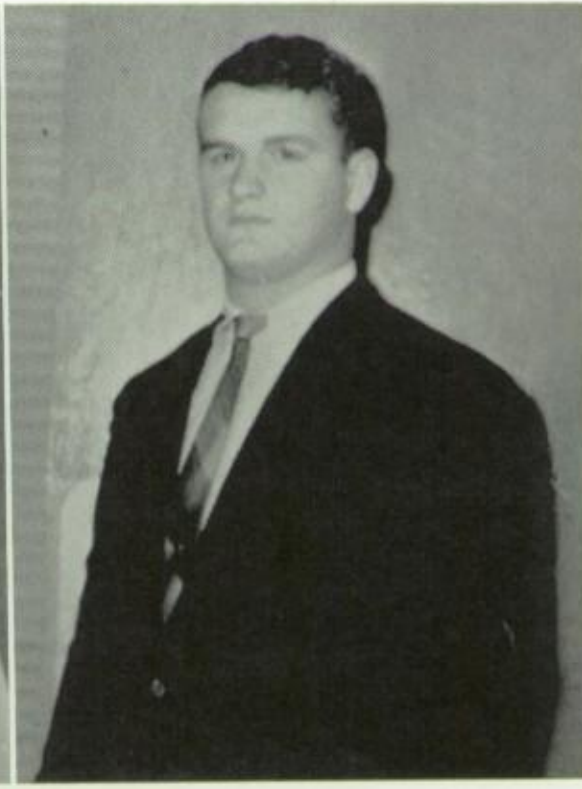

Provine students brought recognition to their school in addition to gaining valuable experience in law-making and parliamentary procedure.

Senior orator Jon Lewis was honored for his speaking ability by being awarded the Best Debater Award at the Hi-Y Legislature.

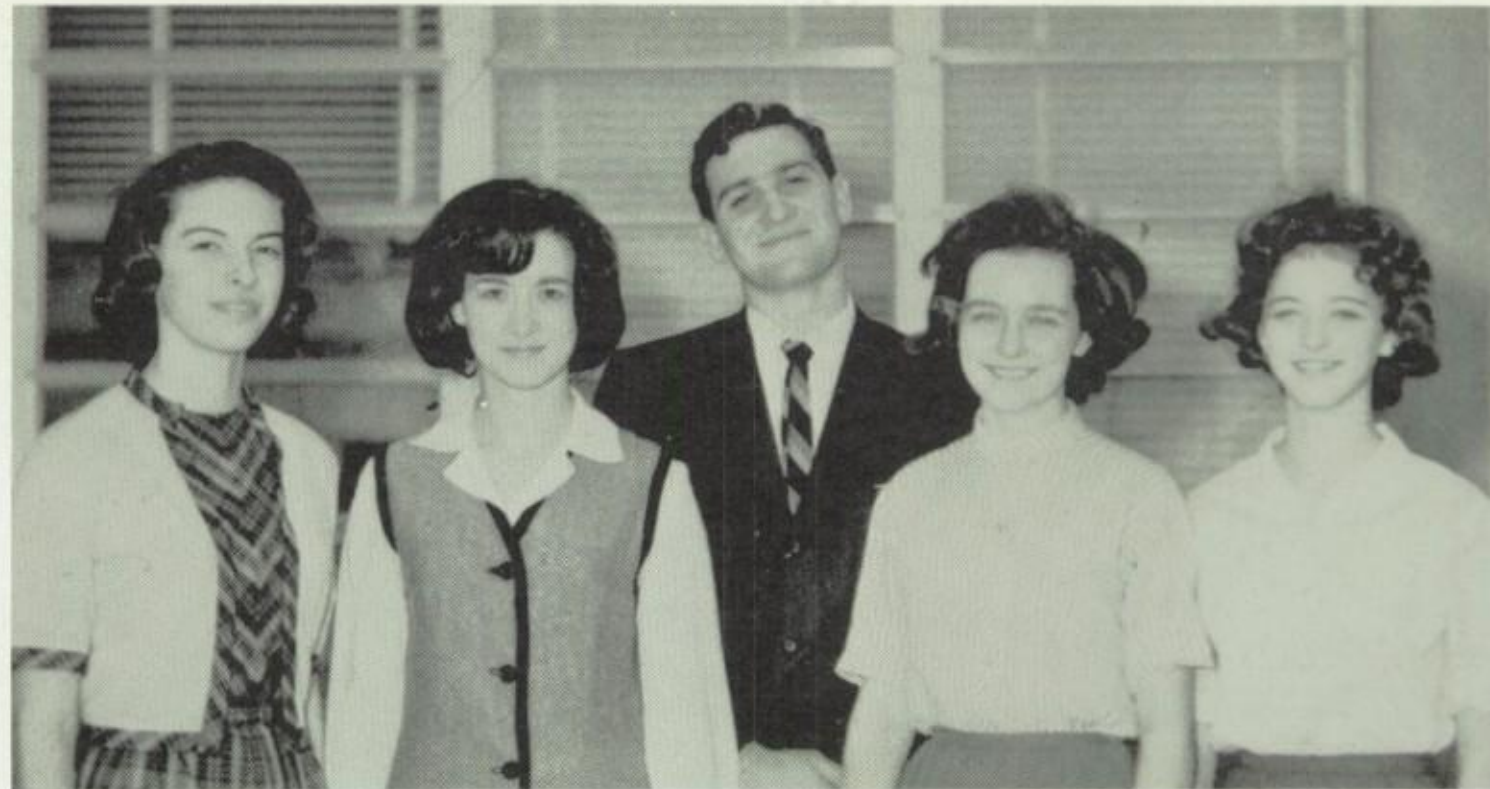

Senior Mary Ann McDonald was nominated by the Provine delegation as Secretary of State at Youth Congress and received an award for the Best Acceptance Speech.

Provine's Student Body President, Jimmy Duckworth, was chosen to attend Boys' State, sponsored by the American Legion, where he participated in a mock state legislature.

Representing Provine on the Kennington's Fashion Board are Debbie Magee, Georgia Downer, Ross Lamberson, Jo Carol Akin, and Sonya McDill.

Individual Attainments Further Progression

Provine's progress produced prominent people—people whose proficiency and leadership were manifested in numerous national, state, and district conventions.

Competence and dependability gained these positions for eminent Rams. Students trekked across the nation and across town to attend conferences and workshops, endeavoring to progress their organizations on the national, state, and local levels.

A senior was elected vice-president of the state National Honor Society, and a junior copped the office of secretary of the Student Librarians of Mississippi.

Always conscious of fashion, representatives were selected to serve on fashion boards and to voice their unique ideas and opinions on the latest in teenage apparel.

A Provine junior was selected to succeed Linda Mann, a 1964 Provine graduate, as Mississippi's representative at the United States Twirling Association.

At all times they represented Provine well and were recognized for their outstanding talents and abilities of leadership.

Pert Judy Blaine, talented junior, was selected the State's Miss United States Twirling Association.

JUDY

Fashion-conscious Phyllis Legg served as McCall's magazine correspondent.

Serving as Co-Ed magazine correspondent for the second year is senior homemaking student Donna Crisco.

Junior Peggy McElveen was elected state secretary of SLAM, the Student Library Assistants of Mississippi.

Contributing to the Jackson Symphony Orchestra with their musical talents are Dick Brown, Bill B. Roberts, Phil Lowe, and Buddy Hardy.

Students selected to attend the All-State Band Clinic in the fall are Alton Baggett and Glenn McGehee.

Music, Student Government Add Zest to Progress

Provincites served their school and their community in a variety of ways. Participating in many functions, they brought distinction and honor to Provine. Cultural appreciation was emphasized by the number of students who spent many long hours in practice with the Jackson Junior Symphony and the Jackson Symphony Orchestra.

A better relationship among the three Jackson high schools was promoted by a Tri-school Student Council Exchange program. Every month three students from each school visited another school, thereby encouraging a closer understanding among the schools.

Mississippi's number one high school band was represented by some of its outstanding musicians at the All-State Band Clinic.

Through their mature conduct and promising ability, Provincites earned the respect and admiration of their school and capital city.

Dick Brown was selected as a recipient of a cello scholarship to Mississippi College, Belhaven College and Louisiana State University.

Students selected to participate in the Intra-City Student Council Exchange among Provine, Murrah, and Central are Bethany Brock, Judy McDonald, Becky Buck, Pete Cajoleas, Brett Adams, Jimmy Duckworth, Ronald Adams, and Ralph Sulser.

Contestants Linda Singletary and Cherry Smith compete in the talent division of the Junior Miss Jackson Pageant.

Exclaiming "I can't believe it!" Carolyn Craig gasps with surprise as Woody Assaf proclaims her the winner of Jackson's Junior Miss Title of 1965.

Provine Beauty Captures Junior Miss Title

Radiant with happiness after her victory, Carolyn Craig, Jackson's newest Junior Miss, looks ahead to the state contest and a busy year of representing the city on many occasions.

Five Provine students were among the senior girls participating in the Jackson Junior Miss Pageant. Each contestant was rated on qualities such as talent, poise, scholarship, personality, and charm. Having exemplified the attributes of the ideal high school girl, Carolyn Craig was chosen as Jackson's Junior Miss. Earning the right to represent Provine and the capital city, Carolyn journeyed to Meridian to participate in the Junior Miss Mississippi Pageant.

Seniors Hilary Wilson and Dianne Bobo display their poise and beauty in Jackson's Junior Miss Pageant.

CLASSES

The SENIOR CLASS chose as its leaders Carolyn Craig, vice-president; Claudia Irvine, reporter; Irene Cajoleas, secretary-treasurer; Mr. Thomas Doty, sponsor; Ronald Adams, president; Mr. Jerry Hutchinson, sponsor.

Senior Officers Typify Ideals of Class

The final year at Provine awakened each senior to the need for a reassessment—what had he done; what must he do?

He conquered the world of responsibility by relying upon his talents and working with others to succeed in his every endeavor.

Through tribulations he saw the need for preparation, and through preparation he achieved.

As a leader he took great steps to increase the accomplishments of his class and school. As a worker he never rested until each goal was attained.

He often dared to take the less-known path, venture forth, and discover new and exciting places. Some were realms of knowledge and reasoning; others were of understanding and faith.

Yes, the senior discovered unfamiliar worlds, and the universe held the material for him to create infinitely more.

Junior Officers Personify Dignity and Responsibility

Juniors—the word was fascinating. Somehow the first year at Provine as sophomores had been successfully completed, and everyone was just a little older, a little wiser, and a little more mature. Each person was looking forward to class rings, another try at winning class capers, and more prestige than he had previously had. The hesitation and doubt all gone, he was ready to strike out on his own, accepting new responsibilities and taking on new positions of leadership. Each person had set for himself certain goals—to enlarge his store of knowledge, to broaden his scope, to deepen his personality, and to heighten his loyalty for his school. Thus the year began.

As the days flew by and the year progressed, each person accomplished his goals. As he did so he contributed something to the junior class. It became unified and strengthened, bound and devoted to Provine. So thus ends the year—the year of Provine's junior class of 1965.

They came—all six hundred of them—eager to work, to play, to become a vital part of Provine. They all knew the importance of their first year in high school. For them, the memories of the football games, the Homecoming dance, class capers, and all the other activities of which they had become a part were to remain as fond memories.

The first year had been eventful, but they planned ahead, looking forward to next year as juniors, to learning, growing, and maturing. The best of life lay yet ahead. The year as sophomores was a big year, but it was only one of many to come.

Progress . . .

IN SCIENCE—Dr. Connie McCaa of the University Medical Center runs a titration of blood plasma in her laboratory.

IN POWER—Mississippi gained an invaluable facility with the construction of the Rex Brown Generating Station in Jackson.

IN TRANSPORTATION—Jackson entered the jet age with the completion of the Allen C. Thompson Field in Rankin County.

IN BUSINESS—Jackson's advancement in merchandising is illustrated by the construction of many suburban shopping centers such as Westland Plaza.

Progress of Jackson Parallels That of Provine

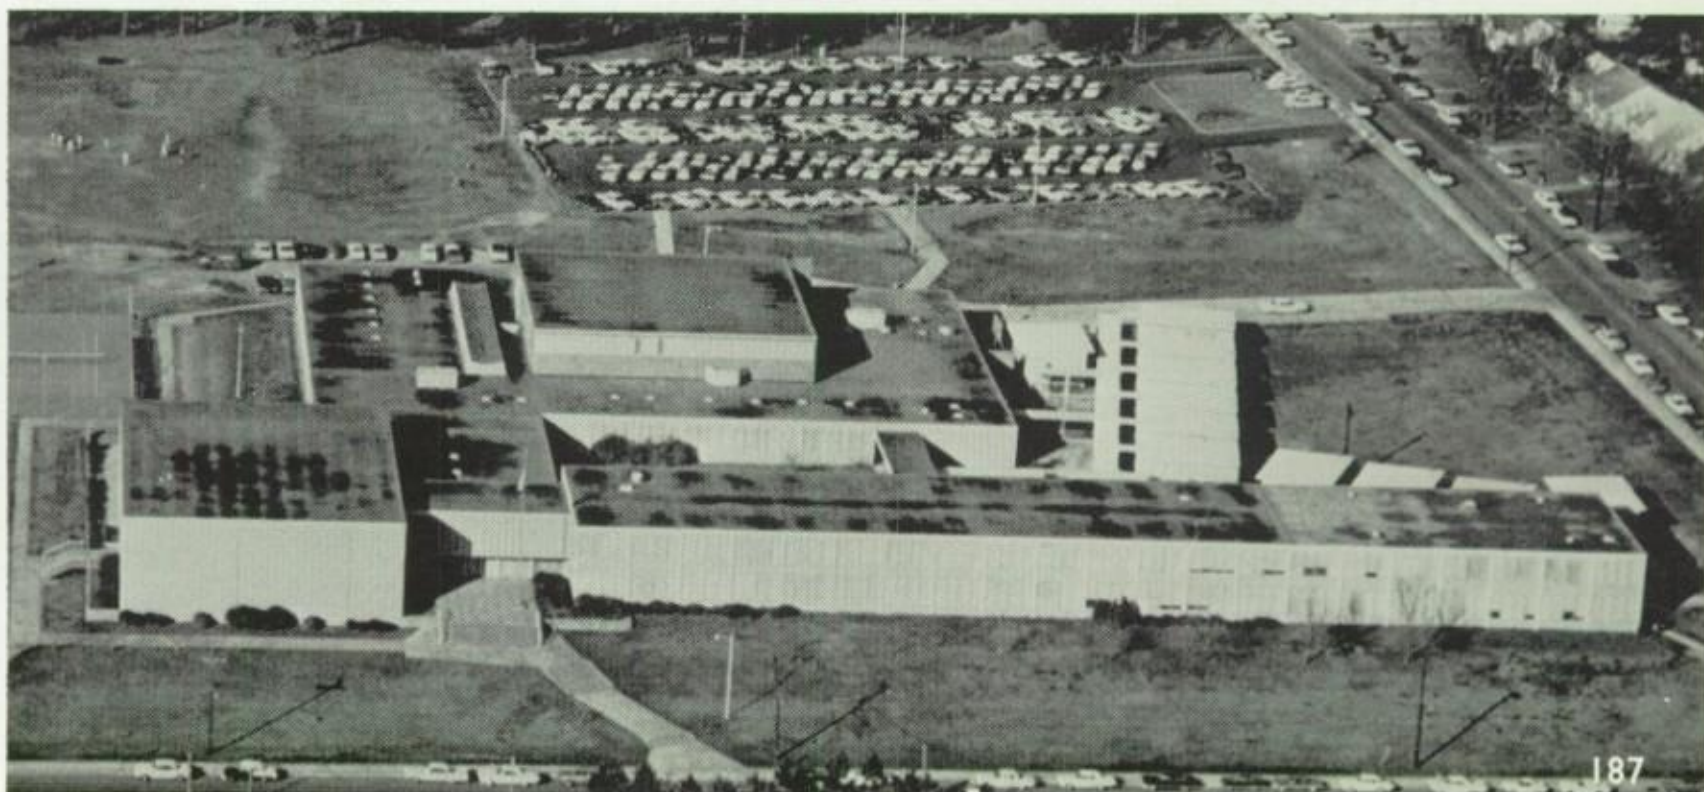

Provine is people and so is its city; the advancement of one is the progress of the other. In the last ten years Provine has advanced from a small school to Mississippi's largest high school, and Jackson has advanced from a middle-sized town to a progressive metropolitan city of 250,000 people.

Achievements in all phases of community life have allowed Jackson to grow and prosper into the "Crossroads of the South." This advancement is paralleled by Provine's position of prominence in scholastic, athletic, and leadership activities. With these advancements and achievements, the future of Jackson and of Provine is indeed a promising one.

IN ENTERTAINMENT—Recreational facilities were greatly improved with the dedication of Jackson's multi-purpose coliseum.

IN EDUCATION—the construction of John W. Provine High School has provided Jackson with another modern plant for the education of its younger citizens.

only,
I have enjoyed having enjoyed with classes, with
you this year.
You are a doll.
I really love you

I go always

Progress Was Our Goal

So ends an annual; so ends a year—one filled with excitement and gaiety, routine and disappointment, fulfillment and accomplishment. Each student entered Provine, strived to achieve, and completed the session. Yet the many experiences broadened viewpoints, sharpened minds, and matured thoughts to such a degree that no student was exactly the same being. Each had made this progress; some were to return to Provine, others to go to college, and others to enter the community life as responsible citizens. But regardless of which path they had taken, they were better equipped for a fuller and richer life because they had been a part of Provine.

Provine 1965—a world of work, joy, and sorrow—is ended, never to be lived again. Yet it will always live through those who lived in it.

This was Provine; this was progress; this was ARIES 1965.

Cathy has been great knowing
you these years.
I only wish we could have a class together one year. I hope you have the very best life has to offer.
Love Ya!
(Shereen)

Cathy,
Here we are at the end of this year and next year at this time you will be graduating. I want to wish you the best of luck and - please never pick on little brothers.
altona,

Cathy,
Well it's been great knowing
you. I hope we will have some classes together
next year. Lots of luck,
Jim Hawk

Cathy,
It has been great knowing you this year (and the ones before). May Bless you.
Lots of Luck,
"Deloris Farris"

Cathy,
It's been great having art with you this year! All those cuts about you being stuck up were just jokes, I'm sure you know! Best always
Tommy Lander

Cathy,
You are a very sweet girl and I have enjoyed having Hinton with you this year and I also what we have some classes together and year. Stay on you are and I will go far. Best of luck!
for friend R. Anderson

Cathy,
I'm glad I got to know you. You are loads of fun. I wish you success and happiness
all through your life.
May God Bless you.
Love
Horses (Alice)

Cathy,
I have really enjoyed having gym with you this year. Good luck with your "key".
Rachel

Cathy,
You a real "kook"
and it's been great knowing you. You are a sunbeam
in everyone's life.
Stay that way.
Cathy Davis

I love you Cathy!
 you're so given talented - with
 And you're art

Cathy, I've really enjoyed your classes and you are really a success.

Cathy,
you are one of the sweetest people
I know. you always have a smile for everyone - this makes us all feel better.
I wish you much success
in the years ahead,
Bill Case

Cathy

It's been nice knowing you these years. Good luck and stay sweet!

Johnny M

Cathy

Always remain the same wonderful person you are and you will always be
a success.
Best of luck
Jerry Thrash

Cathy, I'm so glad we had art together and that I had the chance to know
you. I'm so envious of your talent. I know anyone who does so well in art will have an enriching life. Have a marvelous Sr.
year and always maintain the ideals Progress stands for.
Love,
Pat Bonnet

Cathy,
I haven't known
you very long, but you seem like a very nice and sweet girl to me. I wish we could get to know each other better. Best of luck always.
Joe Freeman

Cathy,

Please don't ever change cause
you're one of the sweetest (and best artist too) I've ever known. Best of luck
& God bless you.

Love,
Jackie (May)
